400 EVACUATE HOMES AS RIVER DAM CRUMBLES

CAPULIN, Colo. (UP)—More than 400 residents of this small southern Colorado community fled from their homes today when officials warned a dam would burst "momentarily."

The state patrol said the spillway of the dam was crumbling "minute by minute" and residents were ordered to "head for high ground."

Police Board Will Probe Threat Against Teacher

Special Session Called to Consider Laying of Charges

A special meeting of Esquimalt police commission will be held next week to consider laying charges in the broken-bottle assault of a high school teacher.

Police Commissioner Elvan Walters said today he will recommend police take action against an 18-year-old former Esquimalt High School student. The meeting was announced by Reeve A. C. Wurtele, chairman of the three-man commission.

Mr. Walters said earlier he would call for the meeting. Date depends on availability of all commission members. Third member is B. L. Douglas.

Reeve Wurtele and Commissioner Walters disagree on who should prefer charges.

The commissioner says it should not be up to school teacher Patrick Thomas to lay charges. This would make the issue a personal matter, he thought.

The reeve says the teacher should have laid the charge when the incident occurred, May 31. He would not indicate whether he would support Commissioner Walters in the laying of a charge or charges by the police force.

'Is He Man or Mouse?'—Wurtele

"He (Mr. Thomas) ought to have been man enough to come down and lay a charge," said the reeve. "Is he man or mouse?"

The boy had been observed pressing a broken bottle against the stomach of Mr. Thomas and threatening:

"I'll kill you."

It was in Mr. Thomas' class the insolence, which caused the boy's dismissal, took place. Mr. Thomas, now in Vancouver taking university summer instruction, had left an information with Esquimalt police.

The police, on the night of the incident, had taken the boy from the school to his home after other teachers had interrupted the violence.

Chief Gilbert Stancombe said Tuesday it was up to Mr. Thomas to sign a complaint—a view held also by school board lawyer W. H. M. Haldane, QC.

'Social Evil' Should Be Corrected

cover, he would seek advice and consider the matter. While reluctant to press charges personally, he felt the situation represented a social evil which could not go uncorrected.

Commissioner Walters agrees. "If this is a mental case or a case of drinking, it is still an illness which should be treated."

Unless there is some action by the police, the boy is the victor in the circumstance and a dangerous precedent will have been allowed which could be repeated, he thought.

The matter should "certainly not" be forgotten.

Mr. Walters indicated more police supervision of youth activities was warranted in Esquimalt.

He said there are only three officers on duty at night in the

U.K. Claims 'Gains' In Disarmament Quest

LONDON (AP)—Britain stated officially today that Russia and the West have made "substantial advances" since March in their quest for a partial disarmament agreement.

A white paper laid before Parliament said "there is still a considerable divergence" between Russian and Western views of what should be written into a partial treaty to slow down the world arms race.

But the government document immediately added:

"Nevertheless it is true to say that substantial advances have been made in the present series of discussions in the five-power sub-committee of the United Nations disarmament commission. The prospects of a partial agreement have materially improved since March."

The document spelled out the main areas of agreement broadly reached thus far as covering:

Surprise attack—There should be a system of inspection from the skies and on the ground to provide an intercontinental alarm system. But the document commented:

"The Western powers regard the zones of inspection suggested by Russia April 30, as being unduly weighted in Soviet favor."

Conventional disarmament—Initial manpower cuts should be to levels of 2,500,000 men for the United States and Russia and 750,000 men for France and Britain.

Armaments—Acceptance of an American proposal cutting back armaments in proportion to manpower reductions. Specified quantities of arms would be surrendered to international control.

Military budgets—Spending should be cut. Russia has proposed a general 15 per cent reduction. The West prefers a method related to manpower and arms cuts, because national budgets do not truly reflect actual spending.

Charles Ellis, 1300 Pandora, suggested the central figure of the logger might be surrounded with others representing wisdom, understanding, counsel, fortitude and knowledge.

U.S. Visit Tops With Nikita —If Invited

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Soviet diplomat says Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev would welcome an invitation to visit the United States.

Second Secretary Anatoli N. Gorshenev said Khrushchev would like to make trip in return for a visit to Russia by President Eisenhower.

The much-traveled Communist leader has hinted in the past he would like to visit the U.S.

The U.S. has never given any encouragement to the idea. However, the Soviet second secretary's statement in an interview to a capital radio station Wednesday came only a few hours after Eisenhower hinted that a visit from Soviet Defence Minister Georgi Zhukov might be welcome.

Administration officials said today the president is waging a determined and heartfelt campaign to break down the barrier of U.S.-Soviet mistrust and bring about a peaceful world.

Eisenhower said Wednesday at his conference "there is nothing I wouldn't try experimentally in order to bring about better relations."

He said in reply to a question an exchange of visits by Secretary of Defence Charles E. Wilson might be helpful.

The Soviet embassy, which usually declines to comment on anything, promptly called the idea a good one.

There was no immediate indication that the U.S. was about to propose the exchange of visits by the defence ministers. But in the past such casual beginnings have sometimes led to major actions.

Experts in Sharp Clash At Cancer, Cigaret Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sharply differing opinions on the relationship between cigarette smoking and lung cancer were voiced today before congressional investigation.

Dr. Clarence Cook Little, chairman of the scientific advisory board to the tobacco industry research committee, testified research findings "disprove a simple striking cause and effect relationship between cigarette smoking and lung cancer."

Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, spokesman for the American Cancer Society, testified that in his opinion, "the evidence is overwhelming" that cigarette smoking is one cause of lung cancer.

The testimony opened a hearing by a sub-committee which is interested primarily in advertising claims as to the protection value of filters on cigarettes.

Dr. Little until 1945 was managing director of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, now the American Cancer Society and in 1954 was appointed head of the tobacco industry's research advisory board.

In a statement prepared for the committee, he said: "Non-smokers get lung cancer. The vast majority of heavy smokers never get lung cancer. Obviously, there is no simple cause and effect mechanism resulting from cigarette smoking."

Dr. Hammond, in addition to discussing lung cancer, also testified that cigarette smoking appears to increase the likelihood of heart and arterial disease. He said the evidence would seem to give pipe and cigar smokers a better life expectancy than cigarette smokers.

In advance of today's session a reporter was told that smokers presently are paying more than $500,000 a day extra for filter "protection"—a premium of about two cents a pack.

As filters have come into wide use, John Blatnik (Dem.-Minn.) said tests appear to show the tobacco content of the cigarette is "souped up"—that stronger tobaccos are used to add "flavor" to the smoke.

"The result is," Blatnik said, "that you have cases where some filters are now giving you as much or more nicotine and tars as you got from the old unfiltered cigarettes."

At Cairo airport the plain white oak coffin was lifted from the plane that brought it from Switzerland and placed aboard a smaller Egyptian Airlines plane. Then it was flown to Aswan, the little town 500 miles up the Nile, where the Aga spent so many happy winters.

The small Moselem leader's beautiful French wife, the Begum, wept continuously as she stepped from the funeral plane at Cairo airport to receive the condolences of her husband's followers from two continents.

Pakistanis in fur caps, Burmese in pink head scarfs and Indian women in saris knelt in the airport visitors' lounge and kissed the hand of Aga Khan IV, the old Aga's 20-year-old grandson and successor.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our God, the King of kings and Lord of lords, bless thou the land we love. For the country with its fertility and for the nation with its freedom and opportunity, we thank thee; our privileges are deep and varied beyond all our imaginings. Enable thy people to establish thy righteousness in our laws and customs, that purity, justice, truth, and mercy may characterize our nation's deeds and dealings. Amen.

PROPELLER BEHEADS FARM GIRL

MILES CITY, Mont. (AP)—An airplane propeller decapitated a 13-year-old farm girl while she helped her father cut hay Wednesday.

Sharon Sammons had been pulling a hay rake near a tractor driven by her father, Ernest Sammons, on the Miles City airport grounds. A light plane was practising take-offs nearby. The plane veered off the runway, bowled over a marker light and then struck the girl, investigators said. The accident was witnessed by the father and airport officials.

He said Saturday night 'teen-age dances had been held in Esquimalt.

"Coun. (J. E.) Carey and I were keen on them. They went fine. There was a rule if the youngsters went out after they came to the dance, they had to stay out.

"A policeman would come around. It was definitely their job in my opinion."

He felt police on duty should check in at the high school dances as well.

The school board Monday recommended that off-duty police be hired to supervise night activities at the school. Reeve Wurtel protested the system. It is used in some Victoria high schools.

He said the Esquimalt police contract disallows officers to do other jobs when off duty. Such maintenance of discipline should be up to the teachers, he said.

"If anyone was to come at me with a broken bottle, I would immediately lay a charge with the police," he said.

26 Days Atop Pole Claimed As Record

MONTREAL (CP)—Russell Poissant, 44, heaved a sigh of relief, clambered back down to earth and claimed a North American flagpole-sitting record Wednesday night.

He spent 26 days atop his pole near the south shore community of Laprairie.

Eight firemen and police constables lowered Poissant from the pole at exactly 8:30 p.m. He had set up shop on a small platform perch at that time 26 days ago.

The changed United States attitude, which no longer takes Canadian acceptance of Washington diplomatic leadership for granted and no longer ignores completely Canadian protests against such adverse economic policies as wheat give-aways and sales gimmicks, is being claimed in cabinet circles here as a direct pay-off from the new Diefenbaker policy of closer Commonwealth relations.

DEVELOPMENTS

Since the prime minister first revealed in London his master-plan for shifting the emphasis in Canadian trade policy from Washington to the Commonwealth—a course which inevitably would involve an equal shift in political and diplomatic emphasis—the following major developments have occurred south of the border:

—United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has taken the initiative in bringing about Canadian-United States talks in the course of a visit which he proposes to make to Ottawa, presumably inspired by a Diefenbaker bias towards basically Commonwealth relationships which has made Washington authorities mildly uneasy.

CONTROLLED

—Walter Berger, administrator of the United States Commodity Credit Corporation, has testified before a United States Senate Agricultural sub-committee that the U.S. barter sale program of farm products, against which Canada has protested repeatedly but vainly in the past, is to be controlled in future so that it will not interfere with normal international markets.

—The National Planning Association, an influential private organization which operates close to the Washington government, has launched a movement under Douglas Stuart, one of the most important figures in the Republican party and a former United States ambassador to Canada, to study and remove the source of economic grievance between Canada and the U.S.

These three major developments are recognized in government circles here as a welcome and spectacular contrast to the indifferent policy Washington had towards Canada over the previous years of the Eisenhower administration.

Feeling of Enmity In Cairo, London Gone, Says Menon

CAIRO (AP)—Defence Minister V. K. Krishnan Menon of India said Wednesday after a four-hour meeting with President Nasser of Egypt that the problem of resumption of Anglo-Egyptian relations "now is limited to certain specific points."

"I have not found a feeling of enmity either in Cairo or London, but such matters as these need time before returning to normal," he said. "Among points of difference still remaining is the problem of British firms under sequestration."

Menon praised Nasser's Suez Canal plan under which Egypt operates the waterway. He said it was a brilliant manoeuvre.

Menon made the comments before taking off for Lebanon on his way back to India.

Business, Labor Ignore Ike's Inflation Pleas

WASHINGTON (AP)—Statistics indicated today that American business and labor are substantially ignoring President Eisenhower's heated pleas that they exercise self-restraint on wages and prices to curb inflation.

Wages keep on going up and so do prices—and the data indicate they have been going up more since January than before. It was in January that Eisenhower told the United States in his annual economic report it was time for some labor-management self-denial.

Data available from the government and reliable private sources show that wage rate settlements, although they have been few, have been somewhat higher so far in 1957 than in the comparable period in 1956.

Prices as reflected by the government's consumer price index—the most widely used measurement of the U.S. living costs—have never stopped going up in 1957.

The living cost index has risen to records for nine straight months in a climb that started 15 months ago. Government economists have forecast another living cost record will be announced in a few days.

Eisenhower has repeated several times since January his warning against speeding up inflation with wage and price boosts.

June 26 and again July 3 the president said business and labor will have to help hold the line against inflation because the government cannot do it alone.

CONTROLS THREAT

Unless there is some statesmanlike action by business and labor in avoiding uncalculated price and wage boosts, Eisenhower said, the alternative may be government controls. He has made clear he doesn't want such controls in peacetime.

Government figures also reveal rising profits, indicating that 1957 promises to be the highest profits year in history.

Figures supplied by Eisenhower's council of economic advisers estimated corporation profits before taxes for the first quarter of 1957 at $46,500,000,000 annual rate compared with $43,700,000,000 for the same 1956 quarter.

Sheppard Murder Suspect 'Poor Find'

BERKELEY, Calif. (UP)—Dr. Paul Kirk, key defence consultant in the Dr. Samuel Sheppard murder case, today dismissed a newly confessed "suspect" in the murder of Marilyn Sheppard as a "poor possibility."

Kirk said however, that the fact that the "confessor," Florida convict Donald Wedler, 23, is a left-handed man "is interesting because I have known all along that the murderer was left-handed."

Wedler has never actually mentioned the name of Sheppard, but has confessed only to bludgeoning a housewife to death about the same time Marilyn Sheppard was murdered in her Cleveland, Ohio bedroom July 4, 1954.

Kirk, a criminologist at the University of California, flatly believes Dr. Sheppard, who is now serving a life sentence for the crime, is innocent.

"I have no doubt that Sheppard is innocent," he said.

Kirk based his theory that the murderer was left-handed on the position of blood stains on the wall. "The blows would have had to be struck by a left-handed man," he said.

Sheppard was right-handed, he added.

But he believes that Wedler is hardly worth considering as a suspect. However, Sheppard's brother, Dr. Stephen Sheppard, will fly to Florida to question Wedler.

Heroic Youth Rescues Three, Brother Dies

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — A 17-year-old youth told Wednesday night how he plunged into the Vermilion River to save a brother and two sisters from drowning, then failed in a desperate attempt to save another brother.

Leonard Ross prevented the multiple drowning Tuesday night while swimming with five other members of the family of Jewel Ross of Hamner.

Other members were his brothers, Norman, 11, who was drowned, and Camil, 14; sisters Pauline, 15, and Denise, 12; and a widowed sister, Mrs. Harold King.

Leonard said he first noticed the girls were in difficulty due to the strong current in the river, abnormally high for this time of year.

"It was not so bad with Denise," he said. "She didn't get too far from the beach. But Pauline got too far down the river. I swam after her."

After stroking 100 yards, he caught Camil as he was being rushed downstream and the boys struggled to the river bank. Turning to the water again, he saw Norman being swept downstream.

"He didn't yell or anything. He was swimming, but the current was too strong for him. I went after him but it was too fast. He kept swimming, then he'd go under — then swim again. I couldn't catch him."

Grain Exports Drop 'Worst Tory Headache'

SASKATOON (CP) — Hazen Argue told the Saskatchewan CCF convention Wednesday the greatest problem facing the new Progressive Conservative government is dwindling grain exports.

"I see nothing in the Conservative program that will tackle the fundamental difficulties relative to exports and do something for agriculture on a long-term basis," said Mr. Argue.

The CCF member of Parliament for Assiniboia delivered a report to the provincial convention from the national CCF executive. National Leader M. J. Coldwell was to have given the report but was delayed at Ottawa. He was expected here today.

Mr. Argue said the wheat board recently told CCF members of Parliament that the highest quota at the end of the current crop year at any delivery point would be six bushels.

He said former trade minister C. D. Howe had predicted last spring that by July a seven-bushel quota would be in operation. The wheat board had estimated that by July 31 only half the delivery points would have delivered the six bushels.

Mr. Argue reiterated the CCF pledge to support the Conservative government in so far as the CCF group could "use its influence to obtain legislation in the interests of the ordinary people of Canada."

Jet Crash Probe Findings 'Disregarded' by RCAF

OTTAWA (CP) — The recommendation last year of an RCAF board of inquiry that the wing of a Mark V CF-100 jet interceptor be structurally tested has not yet been carried out, it is learned authoritatively.

In two fatal crashes of Mark V CF-100s in the last 14 months—including the one that resulted in the board's recommendation—the wing of the aircraft broke in high-speed, low-level flight. The two-man crews were killed.

To give the CF-100 more altitude the earlier Mark IV wing was extended by some three feet at either end creating the Mark V wing.

DETERMINES PRESSURE

The RCAF said the recommended structural test was not carried out because engineers were able to simulate exactly a test on a Mark IV wing by using a Mark IV wing. Thorough tests had been made by exerting on a Mark IV wing the pressure which, it was determined, would apply on a Mark V wing.

A structural test on the ground consists of placing weights on a wing until it breaks. This determines how much pressure the wing can withstand under flight conditions.

Here is the background of the case:

On May 19, 1956, at an air show at Kinross, Mich., Flt. Lt. S. A. Marshall of Peterborough, Ont., was killed when his RCAF CF-100 jet crashed during a low-level speed run.

He was the first member of the RCAF killed while flying a CF-100 Mark V, the advanced version of the Mark IV which now is in general squadron service in Canada.

NEVER GROUND TESTED

Marshall and his American passenger were killed when the starboard wing of the CF-100 failed. It broke off some five feet from the wingtip and the aircraft plunged to earth in seconds.

The board of inquiry into the accident found that the Mark V wing itself had never been tested structurally on the ground.

The board, headed by Wing Cmdr. K. B. Handley, commander of a CF-100 squadron, recommended on May 27, 1956, that a "complete wing of a Mark V Canuck (CF-100) be submitted to a structural integrity test."

Airliner Survivor Felt 'Collision'

AMSTERDAM, Holland (UP)—H. O. Wagenaar, one of the 11 survivors of Monday night's KLM aircrash near Biak, Dutch New Guinea, told the Dutch News Agency ANP today that he felt a "collision" shortly after the plane took off.

Within a few seconds flames burst through the planes cabin, he said. Fifty-seven persons died in the crash.

The Next Election

IT IS GREATLY TO MR. DIEFENBAKER'S credit that he has evidently decided not to call a snap autumn election, catch the opposition unprepared and profit by the electoral memories of June 10.

Since the Queen will open Parliament in mid-October and the Government will introduce legislation of utmost importance (including higher old age pensions and lower income taxes) the House of Commons presumably will have business enough to occupy it until the eve of Christmas.

Having fulfilled his immediate election promises, Mr. Diefenbaker will be entitled to go to the country at any moment of his choice. He is not compelled to hold a regular parliamentary session early in the year and may well prefer to seek a full public mandate before he goes on to complete his program.

Clearly the present Parliament will not live long in stalemate. The Government cannot act with strength or assurance so long as it lacks a majority. An election early in the new year or by spring at latest therefore seems probable.

The date will be fixed by the Prime Minister as he pleases, assuming that the opposition parties do not bring his Government down in the House, as they have no apparent reason or desire to do.

While Mr. Diefenbaker can fix his own timetable, the Liberal Party cannot control the course of events. All it knows is that it has little time to reorganize its shattered affairs. Between now and spring it must prepare for an election which, if mismanaged, could produce something much worse than another Liberal defeat.

Two problems face a party that seemed invulnerable only a few weeks ago and now has become a small minority outside Quebec. It must decide on its future leadership and it must re-think the Liberal principles so long neglected in days of good fortune and complacency.

For both these purposes an early Liberal convention is to be desired. If a new Liberal leader is to take charge—and he can hardly be anyone but Mr. Pearson, whose qualifications are unequalled—it would be advantageous for him to lead the opposition at the autumn session. This may be impossible but at latest he should be chosen before the next session and should have maximum time to prepare for the subsequent election.

Mr. Diefenbaker has shown what a determined man can do in a bare six months but he was moving with a powerful tide of public opinion. Mr. Pearson would be bucking the tide.

Apart from the question of leadership, the Liberal Party—if it is to remain a great national party in government or opposition—must re-define its position in the light of its defeat.

It ran last June on its record and, very unwisely, on the assumption that it needed no other argument. Next year it must run on a much clearer policy, before the Diefenbaker Government has established a record and a convenient target of criticism.

The Liberal Party was in a somewhat similar position after its defeat in 1930. Its reaction was so vigorous that it returned to power five years later and governed until a few weeks ago. This time there will be no leisure of five years for the erection of new policies and it is to be expected, no world depression to ruin the Government.

Nevertheless, the present honeymoon atmosphere in Ottawa will not last even until spring. After the generalities and large promises of an election campaign, the hard facts of life must be faced soon.

New issues, or new aspects of old ones, will rapidly confront both Government and Opposition. On them, and on basic principles more important than the fortunes of any individual politician, the Liberal Party must re-build itself if it is to play its proper part in the nation's future, as the public undoubtedly wishes it to do. But since the axe of dissolution hangs over a short-lived Parliament, there is no time to lose.

Eye on Waterfront Parks

THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT, says Recreation Minister Westwood, is thinking of placing a parkland reserve on all coastline property not privately owned at present.

The Government has already such a reserve on islands south of Comox not in private hands.

This does not mean that the entire shoreline will be converted into parks. What it does mean is that before any of the remaining public land is alienated, the parks branch will have a chance to inspect it and decide whether or not it should be withheld from sale for parks purposes.

This is a protective measure designed to avoid the unhappy situation of parks interests arriving on the scene too late, after public land had been turned over to private owners.

In a province developing as rapidly as this, the precaution seems necessary. Certain of the coastal regions of the United States have viewed with dismay the "vanishing shoreline." Preferred properties in some American regions are being snapped up by private interests either for homes or commercial establishments. This heavy demand for waterfront has led, in specific localities, to the exclusion of the public from beaches and ground close to them.

It will be some time before British Columbia need worry about the loss of all its shore to private interests. It is not too early, however, to make certain that desirable property is not all converted to private use. The same amenities which often make an attractive site for a private estate very frequently are ideal for a public park.

If the reserves are established, the parks branch will enjoy priority of choice. Since the demand is increasing for salt water parks as more and more people turn to boating for recreation, the proposal seems wise.

People Like Babies

A FEW YEARS AGO EXPERTS had the population of North America completely taped in advance. They could tell us when it would reach a peak (about now) and then begin to decline. The figures and the graphs left no doubt about that.

But then something went wrong—or right. The population of the United States is growing today, faster than any expert thought possible, as fast as that of India, a prolific nation. And Canada's growth is still faster.

The London Economist has been giving deep thought to these facts. Why has the birthrate of North America suddenly shot upward? Because times are good and people can afford to support more children? That can hardly explain the baby boom.

If economics entirely governed the birthrate the poor countries, like China for instance, should be declining in population or standing still, but they are growing. Besides, North America has gone through previous booms without the fertility recorded in this one.

No, says The Economist, the explanation is simply that people on this continent have decided that babies are good things to have and young married couples are determined to have them. We can think of no more valid reason for the popular big family of our time, and the happiness that goes with it.

Example in Nanaimo

RESIDENTS OF A NANAIMO subdivision have provided a useful example for British Columbia citizens in general.

When they saw a young driver operating his car in a manner they considered dangerous to the public, they took his number and turned him in. The court did the rest. The young driver was fined and lost, for a time at least, his driving privileges.

The action of the residents serves at least two purposes. It emphasized the right of the individual to take precautionary action against a public menace. And it demonstrated the common sense of meeting a hazard in advance, without considering reprisal.

The latter point seems to have particular significance. Many of the trouble-making youngsters of this and other communities draw encouragement for trouble-making from the fact that adults appear unwilling to risk retaliation from them when they are brought to book. When the small minority of young people misbehaving find that they can get away with misbehavior, they are frequently inclined to press forward to more serious misconduct.

In one instance at least Nanaimo residents have called a halt to such behaviour. If more people elsewhere copy them, an effective check may be placed on delinquencies in cars and out of them.

The Incomplete Angler

IT IS reassuring to learn from the public prints that Mr. Diefenbaker likes to go fishing. He has been enjoying a well-earned fishermen's holiday and thus proving himself a man worthy of public confidence. Oh, no doubt there are a few good statesmen who never go fishing but they are exceptions to the rule. By and large a love of fishing is essential in any man whom the public can safely trust. Statesmanship and angling are interdependent professions.

As it happened, in many talks with Mr. Diefenbaker through the years, when he was only a private member of Parliament, I never suspected that he was also a fisherman. Somehow we never got around to that vital subject. We wasted our time on such minutiae as the Liberal government and the prospects of the Conservative Party.

It is therefore a welcome surprise to find that a true believer now sits in the prime minister's office and perhaps, from the windows of the East Block, sometimes casts his eye longingly toward the Laurentian lakes and streams where he can seldom find time to cast a fly.

Anyway, we can be sure that trip to his own northern Saskatchewan and a few days with the rod and reel will help to repair the physical strains of his extraordinary election campaign and prepare him for the still more strenuous tasks ahead. There is nothing like fishing to put the world in proportion and restore one's faith in human nature. That, I doubt not, is why God created fish.

BUT it seems to me as a fisherman of the humbler sort that Mr. Diefenbaker made a serious mistake in arranging his holiday. Most fishermen would have taken along only essential equipment, including a few bottles of the right stuff. Instead, Mr. Diefenbaker took along, of all things, a company of newspapermen.

Now, the newspapermen may have possessed redeeming virtues and a better side to their natures. They may also have been fishermen. Yet they remained newspapermen, or at least some of them did. I regret to say, and after the day's outing on the lake they piled the prime minister with political questions when all he wanted to talk about was the big one that escaped.

THIS is no way to treat a prime minister on holiday. It shows a lack of respect for his office. It is sacrilege in the presence of trout.

As a result, a strange disturbing news story was telegraphed by the British United Press from Mr. Diefenbaker's home town of Prince Albert. It said that the Prime Minister "is determined that neither he nor any of his cabinet ministers shall become 'prisoners' of the experts."

pert government economists and advisors."

Now observe the loaded question thrust at Mr. Diefenbaker when his mind is concentrated on the important problems of angling.

"One correspondent," the BUP reports, "asked him how he and his cabinet colleagues proposed to escape from the domination of the experts of the Bank of Canada, department of finance and other branches who, in effect, have been determining the taxation and economic policies which the government should pursue."

THIS, of course, is a have-you-stopped-beating-your-wife question of classic design. The reporter tells the Prime Minister that the former Government has been the stooge of its experts and asks him if he proposes to be a stooge also. Of course, he says he doesn't. It is precisely like asking if he is against sin.

Or, only enough, about the time Mr. Diefenbaker was saying, quite properly, that he didn't propose to be a "prisoner" of the experts, General Peckes was saying over in Germany that governments generally follow their experts' advice and as the experts hadn't been changed by the election, there probably would be no fundamental change in defence policies.

THE fact of the matter is that no Canadian government has been the prisoner of its experts. Over and over again governments have rejected the advice of their experts and usually been sorry afterwards. The great principle of responsible government has never been in danger from the civil service. Canadian democracy has always been free, as it must be, to make its own mistakes and taken full advantage of that freedom.

In these strange events at Prince Albert what worries the fishermen is not Mr. Diefenbaker's views on experts and democracy but the fact that he should be compelled to state them on a fishing trip and then on a thoroughly false premise.

THE experts can look after themselves, whether they be experts of government or, more important, of fish. But plainly we need a law, or preferably a constitutional amendment, to protect prime ministers when they go a-fishing. Without it there is always the risk that fish stories, like the story of a helpless, captive government in Ottawa, will be taken seriously.

A life guard hired to protect the public beaches cries for help from a woman and child drowning in the sea. He immediately averts his eyes and clamps his hands over his ears. When asked why he did not go to their aid, he blandly remarks that he did not see or hear of any impending tragedy.

That is precisely the position our Provincial MLAs take when any issue arises, be it a taxpayer's individual problem, or what is more important, issues governing the life and welfare of every man, woman, and child in B.C.

But Keep the Powder Dry

I am a boy 11 years old over here from Calgary to visit my Grandpa and I read the papers to see what is true or false.

So I see where the U.S. government has bought eight English machines to print new U.S. paper money with "In God We Trust" on it.

If they are not false then why are they building atom bombs and battle ships and bombing planes and big armies instead of praying to God and saving their money with "In God We Trust" on it.

That is the question, I would like an answer.

JOHN C. O'REILLY.

P.S. Shouldn't they print it "In God We Trust"?

Clipped?

According to the statement in the press from a meeting of the Barbers Union they are about to increase the cost of children's haircuts from 75c to $1 due to the fact that in the "multi-chair barber shops some barbers will slow down or speed up to avoid having to take a youngster in their chair," also the fact "that some of the children prefer a certain type of haircut."

What is the world coming to? How much featherbedding does the haircutter want? Would the family man barber with three or four children want to pay more than 75c to have his children's haircut? I'll bet he does the job himself as most people are being forced to do for their children.

A study of the Barbers Act shows that our laws in this regard are pure class legislation favoring only the barbers and the public be hanged. They control who will cut hair and who won't and it is quite simple for them to control, under the legislation, the number of barbers working—thereby keeping the few in a preferred position. Competition is practically non-existent.

Let Us Pray

Miss Peters' letter of July 15 poses a most interesting question on the influence of international "experts" and "advisers" in our government, and is fearful that these wisecracks will make mischief in the Diefenbaker administration. Basing her statement on past regimes she has every reason to think so. However, on Page 3 of the same issue of your paper the headline reads:

"Experts won't dominate us, says John D." followed by: "Prime Minister Diefenbaker is determined that neither he nor any of his cabinet ministers shall become 'prisoners' of the expert government economists and advisers."

Let us pray that his record will prove him right but, allowing for unforeseen difficulties, and considerable latitude, for political persiflage, the man "from Missouri" will keep his fingers crossed.

For those interested in government (as every loyal citizen should be) there are reliable intelligence reports which help greatly to give a clearer view of events than that generally portrayed by newspapers. Books like "Fawns in the Game," "Red Fog Over America" and the like reveal many gruesome skeletons behind the scenes of past governments.

Concert in the Park

There has been no consideration given to the acoustics of the Cameron bandstand in Beacon Hill Park, Victoria, B.C.

The sound of the music does not penetrate to a sufficient distance to cover the required seating capacity of the audience. Therefore a loudspeaker was stalled on top of the roof in order to throw out the sound waves into the audience.

The result is distorted and canned music. I have seen several shell types of bandstands around the world with excellent results that throw out the sound waves.

I therefore beg to suggest that the Cameron bandstand at Beacon Hill Park be made a shell type by installing curved plywood vibrating and sounding boards at the rear and sides to throw out the sound.

AFTER THE PURGE

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Dealing With a Pragmatist

THE Soviet government very much wants the outer world to understand that Malenkov, Molotov and the others have been purged but are not exterminated.

As of now, we know definitely only about Malenkov, the chief offender, Khrushchev's most serious rival. He is being sent far enough away from Moscow, to be in political exile, and there he is to live with the charge hanging over his head that he has committed capital crimes. It is a kind of parole before trial or conviction. This, as compared with Stalin's purges, is lenient treatment, and presumably Molotov and Kaganovich, who are too old to be dangerous, will get off at least as well.

All the evidence we have, which now includes Khrushchev's story, but not Malenkov's, supports the view that the object of the purge is to get rid of the main opposition to what might be called a more modernized Communism. The Soviet economy has grown too big and too complicated to be run without normal economic incentives and to be managed by a highly centralized oligarchy, relying principally upon the secret police. The Communist world, what with the growing strength of China and the increasing nationalism of the European satellites, can no longer be held together, as in Stalin's day, by imperial fiat from Moscow.

No Ideologue
Khrushchev, who was a good Stalinist when Stalinism was the vogue, is not much of an ideologue. He is very much of a pragmatist. Insofar as he has turned against Stalinism, it is because, being a practical politician with an acute sense of the Russian realities, he knows that Stalinism will no longer work. The purpose of his reforms is to make the Communist system work, to consolidate the regime within Russia and to hold together the alliances with China and with the satellites.

There is in high places in Washington some wishful thinking which supposes that we are witnessing the beginning of the break-up of the Communist system. There is, it seems to me, no public evidence to support this notion, and even if, by some chance, it turned out that the Soviet problems at home and abroad are insoluble, it would still be a great mistake to make such an assumption now. We are least likely to mislead ourselves if we make the contrary assumption, which is that the Khrushchev reforms are likely to make stronger both the Russian state and the Russian system of alliances.

There are no indications that the internal problems are so severe that the Russian ruling class is becoming desperate and may become violent. Nor is there any indication that out of internal weakness the government will now make substantial concessions to the West about Germany, Korea, Formosa, the Middle East, or disarmament.

On the contrary, with Marshal Zhukov and the army playing a larger role, we shall be dealing with a government which can be expected to be firmly opposed for military and national reasons to any strategic retreat. We must bear in mind that while it has been the Communists who have pushed forward the Russian sphere of influence to the lines of the Iron Curtain, those lines have been for more than a century the objective, or let us say the great dream, of Russian imperial strategy.

No Substantial Retreat

We must suppose that there will be no substantial retreat, nothing for example, which brings the whole of Germany within the sphere of NATO, or takes Poland outside the military system over which Marshal Zhukov presides. What about an advance? Is it likely that a modernized Communist regime will try to expand—to absorb West Germany, South Korea, Formosa, South Viet Nam, or to make a physical lodgment say in Syria or in Egypt?

There can be no certain answer to these crucial questions. We are dealing not in certainties but in probabilities. The most probable correct answer is, it seems to me, that Russia and China will try to expand by all means short of overt, organized, military action.

It is highly probable that with the balance of power in nuclear weapons as even as it is, any organized warfare which could involve Russia or the United States would be an incalculable risk for both of us. There is no likely, therefore, to be another limited war as in Korea. For even if the biggest weapons were not used, the weapons that would be used would not only be enormous by the old standards, but the tendency to raise the ante would probably be irresistible.

Without undue risk, we can assume that the deterrent strategy will prevent war above the level of propaganda, insurrection, subversion, infiltration, and intrigue. Considering the State Department's rather expert performance in Jordan and elsewhere in the Middle East during the past few months, there is no longer reason to think that in a cold war, we are hopelessly outclassed. (1937 New York Herald Tribune Inc.)

Scents

SCENTS are such peculiar things," she said. "This bracken and new-mown hay carry me right back to the island and our childhood."

For, though their islands were different, their heritages were very much the same. It was made up of shabby, rambling house with wide veranda where bathing suits hung along the rail all summer long and battered chairs were always loaded with books and magazines.

It was books, shelves of books. These books were read and known. They didn't come all new and shiny from a Book of the Month Club. They were the classics mostly. And a lot of them were poetry.

The house was never very neat. There was too much coming and going of friends and relatives and children. Starfish, bird nests, papers on farm matters, English papers, charts of the waters round the island—all these you'd likely find near the surface in that house.

The conversation ranged all over. It was adults' memories of England, and interminable yarns about queer characters on the mainland and up the coast. It was talk of tides and boats and fishing. It was talk about farm and animals and soil. It was talk of books and politics.

There were so many facets to that island life, that, as middle-aged matrons, they found it hard to disentangle all the memories.

The long dirt road through the valley and down to the wharf came into them.

For that road was the only road of any consequence. It was the road they followed to go to school. (Though often they took the shorter trail through the bush). It was the road along which they drove in the wagon when they had to go to meet the boat.

And Boat Days were a chapter to themselves. They meant hitching up the team, and possibly loading the wagon. They meant opening farm gates, and riding in the back on the load (the carcass of a pig, maybe, or a calf, all carefully wrapped.)

The homeward load was often sacks of grain or feed. And if the load were heavy, the children had to get out and walk up the hills to make it easier for the horses.

The rumble of wagon wheels and the hollow sound of horses' hooves on wooden bridges were a part of their childhood, too. So was the sound of the boat blowing for the port of call before their own.

They knew the little shed at the head of the wharf. And, many a time they huddled in there on winter days, grateful for the shelter from the wind. The sound of the postmaster stamping the mail was part of it, too.

They remembered the Sunday picnics, and the masses and masses of food. It's a way of life that's vanishing, and certain aspects of it were peculiar to the islands.

But it's always astonished me that, of the many middle-aged men and women who grew up on the islands, not one has written a book for children that's really caught the spirit of the islands, as they were.

For the material was there. Just as surely as it was on Prince Edward Island for "Anne of Green Gables." It would have to be a "period piece" now that conditions have changed so much. But it could be very real and gripping if it were written by someone who knows how to recapture the spirit of childhood.

Remember the time you walked over the bluffs alone, and thought you heard a cougar in the bush? Remember the time you lost yourself when you tried to take a short cut across the island? Remember how, in your terror, you thought you heard voices calling to you in the bush?

Remember the general store, and the squashed fly biscuits?

There are a thousand little details that could come alive if they were handled properly.

Endive Makes Good Lettuce Substitute

Endive (ten-div or endive) makes a good substitute for lettuce and a welcome change in greens for fall salads.

The Batavian varieties look much like a cos lettuce, and when grown in a not too rich soil will withstand light frosts.

Seed is sown in drills the same as lettuce, the seedlings thin early and the larger plants which develop later can be transplanted. Final spacing should be about nine inches.

To enhance the appearance of the leaves and to remove the bitterness, the centres of the plants are blanched. The outer leaves of a full grown plant are tied together and the entire plant covered with a darkened cloche or large flower pot.

Only one or two plants are blanched at a time because the inner leaves tend to rot in the damp atmosphere of late fall. Ventilation without too much exposure to light is important.

The curled varieties are less hardy than the Batavian and need the protection of cloches or a cold frame by late September. Plants of the curled types may be dug and replanted in boxes for blanching in a dark shed or basement.

Several home gardeners have enjoyed the culture of endive since it made its appearance in local grocery stores about two years ago. Its nutty flavor has a special appeal to those who appreciate good salads.

Sowings, which should be small and repeated every 10 to 15 days, may be started now and continued until the end of August if protection can be given after the fall frost.

Civil Rights Bill to Bring Total Boycott?

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Lt. Gov. Guy Hardwick predicted Wednesday that Alabama white people will enforce a total boycott of Negroes if "this outrageous civil rights bill" now before the Senate becomes law and Negroes attempt to avail themselves of its provisions.

"All white men will, of necessity, be drawn together by common bonds of resistance," Hardwick told a Birmingham civic club. "And I predict they will refuse to employ, feed, clothe, or otherwise aid or assist Negroes, if the latter insist in disrupting and upsetting our way of life in Alabama."

Hardwick is president of the Alabama Senate and is considered a possible candidate for governor next year.

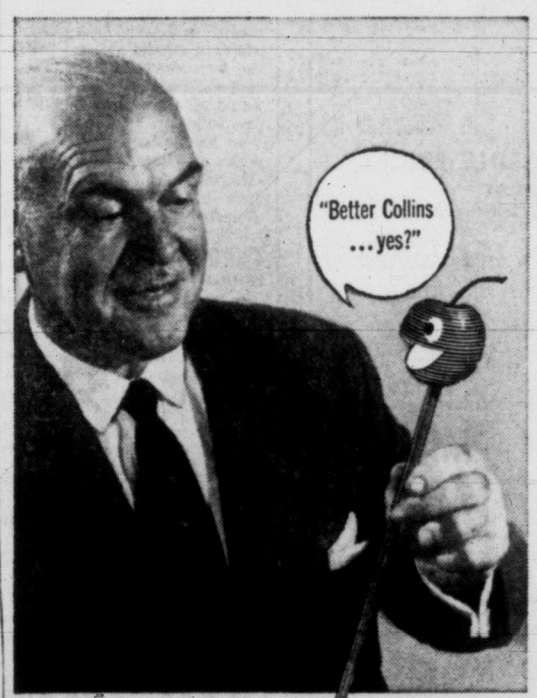

The lieutenant-governor said it is his opinion that "no man will be elected governor of Alabama unless he enters into a solemn pact with the voters of this state to maintain segregation, and further pledge he will not use the National Guard of Alabama, manning tanks to escort Negro children into white schools, as was done in Tennessee and Kentucky."

Douglas Foresees Key Role For CCF in 2-Party System

SASKATOON (CP) — Premier T. C. Douglas says he foresees the time when the CCF party will form the core of one group in a realignment of Canadian political forces into a two-party system.

The Saskatchewan premier, addressing the party's annual provincial convention Wednesday night, said he had predicted in 1954 that there one day would be a Canadian right-wing government supported by the Conservatives, Social Credit and the Quebec Union Nationale.

He predicted that the Liberal party will disintegrate. The right wing would join the Conservatives and allies, while the left wing members would find their way into the CCF movement of farmer, labor and progressive groups.

This had happened in England, Australia, New Zealand and the Scandinavian countries, Mr. Douglas said.

"If the CCF provides the right kind of leadership I believe it can rally the farmers, organized labor and the progressive elements of Canada behind its banner," he added.

With two parties aligned as he foresees them, the Canadian electorate would be able to choose clearly between two groups with vastly different social and political philosophies.

"The CCF must seize the opportunity which now presents itself to mobilize the progressive forces of this country and to present to Canadians a program designed to establish a more just and humane society," he told the convention. The CCF now holds the balance of power in the Commons.

Mr. Douglas disagreed with views that a minority government at Ottawa will mean "political instability."

He said that for 25 years there had been "virtually one-party government in Canada; the Liberals had such strength they ignored the opposition and were indifferent to public opinion; a situation of political stagnation—not stability."

Under the present conditions the Conservative government would "have to perform or perish."

The CCF members of the House found themselves in "delicate political equilibrium." They could not hope to persuade the government to adopt the CCF program, and it would be "a major accomplishment in Canadian parliamentary history if we can even force them to implement their own program."

The CCF members could not be timid. They had been presented

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Hardening of the Arteries

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Hundreds of people are now asking what they can do to cure hardening of the arteries, or to stave off the disease, or so stop it where it is after it has come, or perhaps to keep it from going on and producing another heart attack or another little stroke. Unfortunately,

I haven't any very good answer to these questions. Whether hardening of the arteries comes early or late to a man depends, I think, largely on his heredity. If his father and mother both lived until they were 90, the chances are that he, too, will be long-lived. But if his father and his father's brother dropped dead before the age of 55, his outlook for a long life is not so good.

For years we have known that, next to a poor heredity, eating too much and getting stout is probably the commonest contributory cause of either hardening or ulceration of the arteries. Of late, Dr. Ancel Keys has been traveling about the world studying the diets of those peoples who seldom have arteriosclerosis and heart attacks, and comparing them with the diets of those peoples (like Americans) who have much hardening of the arteries and many heart attacks. So far the evidence points to the bad effects of eating too much fat. People like the Japanese, who can afford very little fat in their diet, have a low incidence of heart attacks, while people like some of the Finns, who eat much butter and animal fat, have many heart attacks, as we do in America. We in America, with our large average income, are apparently eating too much fat. Interestingly, the descendants of Japanese living in California and eating too much fat, are getting heart attacks much as the rest of us Americans do.

CHOLESTEROL PROMINENT

Today, the medical literature is full of articles on the fat-like substance called cholesterol, which apparently has much to do with ulcerations in the arteries, and hence with heart attacks and little strokes. Some doctors now think that every effort should be made to cut down on the amount of cholesterol in the diet, but others, equally expert in this field, feel that this isn't the whole answer. One difficulty is that a man can eat no cholesterol and still have too much in his blood; his body can make it out of other foods.

Some men think that animal fats are worse than vegetable fats, and others think that "saturated fats" or hard fats are worse than unsaturated fats and the more liquid oils. But as yet there is no agreement on this. Dr. John Gofman, of the University of California, has just presented figures to indicate that if we live on too starchy a diet we can increase our chances of getting a heart attack.

Against this is the finding by Dr. Keys in Italy that people who get stout on macaroni are not very subject to heart attacks.

Along the way the experts have not yet explained to my satisfaction why women, and even those who live on rich food and get much fatter than do men, seldom get heart attacks.

Obviously, until the experts begin to agree on a few things, I do not feel I have the right to say to my patients, "You must eat this or you must not eat that." All I feel like saying is, "If you are stout and if you are eating much more than you need, and particularly if you are fond of much fat in your diet, you had better cut down on the total calories and on the total amount of fat."

SALTLESS FAD

Some people want to know if they should go without salt. Thank goodness, that fad is not being pushed as hard as it was a few years ago. The person I would put on a salt-poor diet would be one with a heart or kidney that had failed so much that he was a bit waterlogged. The removal of salt from the diet helps the person to get rid of an excess of fluid in his body. To take a man's salt away from him, simply because he has a little increase in blood pressure—so far as I can see—is unjustified. The wives of men who have been ordered onto a salt-poor diet tell me that, since they have been feeding their man tasteless food, he has been getting so angry with them every night at table that they think his blood pressure has been pushed up higher than it ever was!

Many people talk of a "salt-free" diet. Actually, it is very hard to devise a salt-free diet, and this is lucky because almost salt-free diets can kill the patient. One of the most salt-poor diets is the "rice diet," which can help a patient who is suffering from the severe symptoms of a very high blood pressure.

In all dietetics the wise physician tries to keep his head, and refuses to prescribe something which will make the patient's life and his wife's life unbearable. My friend, Dr. Irvine Page, of Cleveland, one of the country's experts on hardening of arteries, tells how, for about a year he lived on an almost fatless diet. He says it was the most miserable year of his life, and that he got so irritable that hardly any of his friends could stand him!

ANN MERAW SETS NEW LAKE SWIM

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—Ann Meraw, 37-year-old Vancouver housewife who battled Lake Okanagan for 25 hours in a swim attempt last year, says she will try again.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

City council will consider whether or not to support a resolution requesting the Union of B.C. Municipalities to ask the government to reconsider plans which would disperse with lay magistrates.

The Fraser Valley Municipal Association sent the request for support to all municipalities, and noted that the government intends to appoint travelling magistrates from the Bar Association.

The resolution said lay magistrates had been giving adequate service, and endorsed the present system.

Results of the weekly session Tuesday of the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club follow:

North-South—Bill Simpson-Baikie and Otto Leemont; Jack Goldie and Ethel Cleworth; Sam and Dora Duprau; Dick Lipsey and Joe Lukas.

East-West—Ida and Eric Druce; Elizabeth Warren and Marge Beale; Bert Warrender and George Metcalfe; Les Stewart and George Morgan.

Full membership in the Automobile Association of Great Britain for members of the B.C. Automobile Association, travelling overseas has now been arranged, it was announced today. Under this plan Commonwealth membership cards will be issued to members visiting Britain.

"They will ensure that the tourist has all the services and privileges of membership in the British AA for a six-month period," S. C. R. Wicks, acting secretary manager of the B.C. Auto Association, said.

Further study of a planned vehicle testing station for Victoria was tabled Wednesday by council public works committee for two weeks. Aldermen J. Donald Smith and Hugh Ramsay visited the Vancouver testing station Tuesday and returned with an inconclusive report. Ald. Ramsay wholeheartedly favors the plan and proposed the city seek special powers to set up a station. Ald. Smith said he wasn't "sold on the idea yet."

British Addicts Include Doctors

LONDON (Reuters)—Nearly 30 per cent of known British drug addicts are in the medical profession, a government report disclosed today. It gave the number of known British addicts as 333, which included 77 doctors, 20 nurses, and two dentists.

The car had been reported stolen from Oliver earlier by Frances Itterman, Inland Natural Gas Company employee.

RCMP were notified and the stolen car was spotted going west on the Penticton-Keremeos highway by a police car. The driver ignored the siren and red flasher and attempted to outrun the police at high speeds through heavy traffic.

The car was overhauled and two shots were fired into the air. The driver halted the car when the third warning shot was fired.

RAIL LINE CLEARED

NORTH BEND—Working under the glare of floodlights, construction crews Wednesday night cleared the CPR main line of a rock slide at 9 p.m.

They continued working on the Trans-Canada Highway, pushing back the thousands of tons of rock which crashed down near this Fraser Canyon settlement, 115 miles northeast of Vancouver Monday.

HUGE DEVELOPMENT PLAN VANCOUVER—City council will be presented with a new five-year plan for civic development next Tuesday to cost $105,000,000, it was learned Wednesday.

The plan was prepared by the technical planning board and lists urgent or desirable objectives for the period in Vancouver.

The new plan, to be presented to voters at the next civic election in December, calls for $74,000,000 for new bridge overpasses, streets, sewers and other services; $33,000,000 on public projects, and $28,000,000 for the city's one-half share in new school costs.

TRAFFIC VICTIM

VANCOUVER—A 65-year-old man died Wednesday following an accident underneath a traffic light that was out because of a strike of electricians. Leong Lung was knocked over by a car at the east end of the downtown area early Wednesday morning and died in the afternoon.

SLAYER'S WIFE HASN'T MONEY FOR BURIAL

VANCOUVER (CP)—The body of Gerald Eaton, 52, hanged early Tuesday, will not be claimed by his widow.

She hasn't any money with which to pay burial costs.

Rev. Donald Macqueen, who was with Eaton when he walked to the gallows for the murder of Carolynne Moore, said Mrs. Eaton is in hospital. She has been in a state of collapse for more than a week and was unable to have her scheduled last visit with her husband.

Mr. Macqueen said the sheriff is in charge of the body. No date has been set for a funeral.

Indian Senate Post Considered To Fulfil Tory Election Pledge

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian Indian who has gained world recognition as a mining engineer may be appointed to the Senate.

He is Gilbert C. Monture, 60, a great-grandson of Capt. Joseph Brant, the famous chief of the Iroquois. It was through Capt. Brant that the Six Nations Indians assisted the British to occupy Canada.

Another possible choice is Andy Paull, president of the Native Brotherhood of British Columbia.

Mr. Monture, born on the Six Nations reserve near Brantford, Ont., retired in June, 1956, as chief of the mineral resources division of the federal mines department. He now is vice-president of a mining and metallurgical development company.

ELECTION PROMISE

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is considering the selection of Mr. Monture to fulfil his election promise to put a representative of Canada's 150,000 native Indians in the Senate.

It would be the first time an Indian has ever been appointed to the upper chamber of Parliament.

There now are 16 vacancies in the 102-seat upper chamber. Current membership is made up of five Conservatives, 78 Liberals, one Independent Liberal and two independents. Senators receive $10,000 a year and their appointments are for life.

'BODY' JUST SLEEPING

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP)—When children told police Wednesday they had found "a body in a box" in an abandoned dairy stable, two cruisers and a paddy wagon were sent to the scene.

The trail led to an abandoned stable on a city-owned parking lot. On the second floor, police found the box, and the "body"—17-year-old Ralph Meunier, of Timmins.

Hitler's Sergeant In First War Dies at Ganges

GANGES—Funeral services were held at Our Lady of Grace Church Tuesday for Joseph Lautman, 58, retired logging operator and fellow soldier in the German Army with Corporal Adolf Hitler.

Mr. Lautman was a sergeant with Austrian forces in the First World War, and was Hitler's immediate superior. He died Saturday after a lengthy illness.

He won the Iron Cross before the end of hostilities. In later years he spent many hours discussing his former junior NCO, who plunged the world into war in 1939.

FERRY DIRECTOR
Mr. Lautman came to Canada from Austria in 1927, and arrived at Salt Spring Island in 1930 to open a logging camp. He operated the camp until his retirement in 1952, and was a director of Gulf Islands Ferry Company Ltd. from the time of its inception.

Surviving are his widow at the family home, Cushion Lake; a brother and two sisters in Austria; a stepdaughter, Margaret Wilkison, Cassidy; and two stepsons, Charles R. and Howard A. Horel, Salt Spring Island.

Small Stores Ask Exemption

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—A resolution asking exemption from early closing hours for neighborhood stores will be sent from Port Alberni council to the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

A letter from C. H. Brown was read to council this week, suggesting that an amendment to the Municipal Act should be passed covering stores half a mile or more from the main shopping district.

Funds also were not available to send Alfred Kristiansen, recreation superintendent, to a leadership course being given in Victoria. He is spending a week on the course as part of his annual holiday, and at his own expense.

Meanwhile, amalgamation of the parks board, arena commission and recreation commission is slated for Oct. 1, for purposes of economy and to avoid overlapping.

Suggested as in line for the post of recreation manager in the new setup are Mr. Kristiansen and William Oliver, manager of the Civic Arena.

He Hasn't Missed In 15 Rotary Years

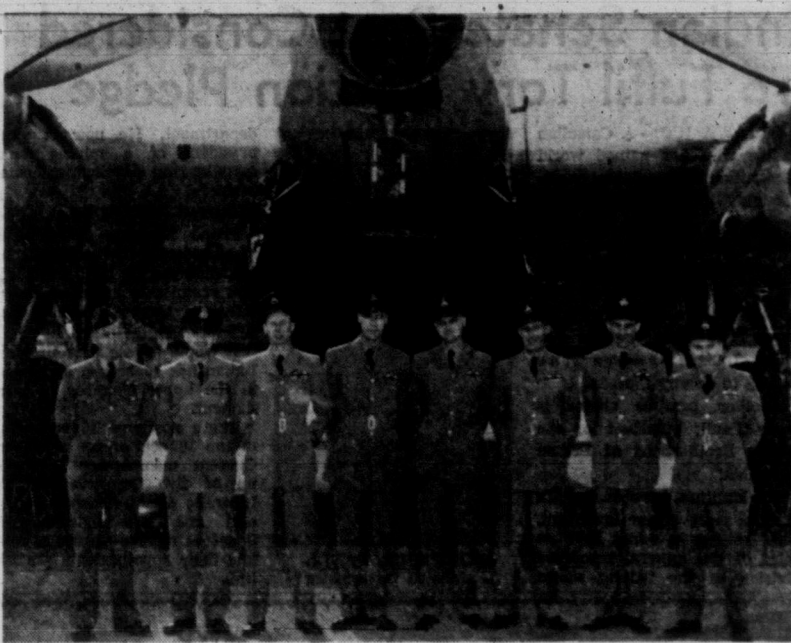

DUNCAN — Rotarian J. H. Smith, with a record of 15 years of perfect attendance, received a bar for his name badge at the regular meeting of Duncan Rotary Club this week.

Only one other member, W. K. L. Farquhar, has achieved an equal record.

The club is considering ways and means of assisting Cowichan Agricultural Society to acquire title to 8.8 acres of land as a permanent home for the annual Cowichan Exhibition. It intends to give substantial help to a local campaign planned to raise $10,000 of the $20,000 purchase price by Sept. 15.

However, a motion to make an immediate donation of $1,000 was ruled out of order, since the club constitution requires financial motions to be placed before the directorate before going to the membership.

LAST LOAD OF BIG PIPE

CHEMAINUS — Last scowload of pipe for the Crofton pulp mill's water line was unloaded here this week.

There were 1,376 pieces of the giant pipe, measuring 48 inches in diameter and 32 feet long, unloaded here in eight separate shipments. During the winter months, the pipe was stockpiled along the water line right of way as the ground was too soft for the trucks to spread the pipe.

Total weight of the pipe being used in the 10-mile-long pipeline from the Cowichan River is 11,000 tons.

Cowichan Legion Building Completed by Christmas

DUNCAN—New Trunk Road headquarters for Cowichan branch, Canadian Legion, likely will be ready by Christmas.

A special meeting of the branch will be held Monday night to consider revised plans for the new building, to be of concrete block construction and to include a club room, offices, ladies' auxiliary room, and space for indoor sports.

Plans also provide for the construction of a spacious auditorium at a later date, as funds become available.

The Christmas target date can be met if the plans receive approval of the membership.

Diver Locates Watch In Davy Jones' Locker

CHEMAINUS — Thanks to diver Tommy Lahde, water taxi owner Osric Murrell can tell the time of day once more.

One day this week Murrell dropped his watch over the side of his scow, located at the end of the government wharf. Both he and a friend dove into the water several times in an effort to recover the watch, but were unsuccessful.

Lahde, a professional diver working on a project at Bare Point, heard of Murrell's plight and came to the rescue. A few minutes after donning his full gear, Tom came back up with the watch.

Rotary Signs For Wharves

In addition to being a guide for visitors, the signs will be good publicity, president George Price said.

CHEMAINUS—Something of a record for Little League play was set this week when the Rotary team, last year's champions and cellar dwellers for the most part of this season, scored a total of 72 runs in two games.

On Friday night, the Rotary Little Leaguers walloped Kinsmen, 31-7. On Tuesday night they whipped the Legion, 41-12.

WESTWOOD PREDICTION

Tourist Industry To Take No. 2 Spot

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — It's fishing now but what eventually will be B.C.'s second biggest business?

Tourists, says Earle Westwood, recreation and conservation minister. He told a tourist meeting here Wednesday that the provincial government spent $100,000 attracting visitors to B.C. last year. They brought in an estimated $90,000,000 in business, Mr. Westwood says he hopes to see this figure expanded.

"All must share in promoting the fun, fame and fortune."

The department will look after getting the tourists into the province, he said. After that, it's up to individual communities to guide the visitors around.

Homes Purchased With Union Funds?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two officials of the United Textile Workers' Union were summoned today to tell whether they used union money to buy expensive homes for themselves.

EMPRESS HOTEL DISPUTE GOES TO BOARD

A contract dispute between the CPR and 450 employees of the Empress Hotel and Crystal Garden has gone to conciliation.

Labor Minister Wicks today announced the appointment of a conciliation board headed by W. G. Stone of Victoria.

Employer's nominee on the board will be A. G. E. Robbins of Victoria, and the employees have chosen George Home of Vancouver.

The workers represented by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers, Local 276, are seeking higher wages, a health and welfare plan, and other benefits.

President Anthony Valente and secretary-treasurer Lloyd Klenert, who have denied any irregularities, go before the Senate rackets investigating committee to reply to testimony that they used $37,000 from the same source to "reimburse" the union.

Chairman John McClellan (Dem. Ark.), in a statement launching this new phase of the committee's search for evidence of racketeering, graft and other wrongdoing, said the public hearing would explore also allegations that Klenert dipped into the union's treasury for $10,000 more to buy things for himself, his family and friends.

The two union officials said in a joint statement that "all expenditures of union funds have been made either with the authorization of the convention or the international executive council, the organization's highest governing body."

McClellan announced AFL-CIO President George Meany will be called as a witness Monday.

300 Accidents In 4 Weeks In RCMP Area

A new tabulating system for traffic accidents in RCMP-controlled areas of B.C. shows an average 300 crashes a week for the past four weeks.

A/Sgt. M. R. Godfrey, "E" Division traffic supervisor, said, weekly averages are being taken in order to permit a closer check on accident frequency.

He noted an increase in the number of fatal accidents in B.C. areas coming under RCMP jurisdiction in the period from Jan. 1, compared with the same six months of 1956.

81 DEAD
There have been 67 fatal automobile wrecks in which a total 81 persons have died to date this year.

These figures do not include fatalities in areas controlled by local police departments.

More emphasis is being placed by the RCMP on traffic prevention through use of such systems as "safety control zones" which made their inaugural appearance in Canada Wednesday on south Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland.

Wall Still Shrinking

WARWICK, R. I. (AP)—The big stone wall on Major Potter Road still is shrinking. Floyd Howe, who told police earlier in the week that a 100-foot section of the wall at his summer home had been stolen, made another call Wednesday night to report additional stones were gone.

Sam Dials Right Number; Cards Get Turn on Line

By UNITED PRESS

DON NEWCOMBE ... string snapped

The National League race resembled a crowded telephone booth today with four other clubs waiting around impatiently to put in a pennant call as soon as they can get the first-place Cardinals off the line.

St. Louis just managed to sneak into the lead by one percentage point with a 7-3 victory over Brooklyn last night.

But the Cards know they are being pressed—and that their time may run out any moment; Milwaukee is first in line, only one percentage point away from the lead, Philadelphia is in third place, only a half game back while Brooklyn is 1½ games off the pace and Cincinnati only two.

"This thing is so tight right now," commented Redleg manager Birdie Tebbetts, "that three clubs can change places between lunchtime and dinner."

To prove Tebbetts' point, the Braves dumped the Phillies from first place to third by beating them, 10-3, last night. Cincinnati edged the Giants, 5-4, and the Cubs defeated the Pirates, 4-3, in their own private battle for seventh place.

YANKS RETAIN EDGE

The Yankees retained their four-game lead in the American League with a 5-1 decision over Detroit, Washington snapping Cleveland's five-game winning streak, 11-6; Chicago beat Baltimore, 3-1, and Kansas City went 12 innings to top Boston, 4-3.

In beating Brooklyn, the Cardinals ended Don Newcombe's six-year mastery over them by defeating him for the first time since Aug. 23, 1951. He had beaten them 12 times since then. They chased him with a four-run rally in the fourth inning that included a two-run homer by Wally Moon. Del Ennis also homered for the Cards as Sam Jones struck out 12 batters in registering his eighth victory.

Milwaukee's victory over the Phillies was marked by a first-inning rhabarb in which Philadelphia starter Robin Roberts had to be restrained from attacking umpire Jocko Conlan.

The fireworks started over a double play call that went against the Phils. Hank Aaron and Red Schoendienst each collected three hits in Milwaukee's 13-hit attack. Roberts was ejected in the first inning and his successor, Jack Meyer, was the loser. Lew Burdette was the winner.

George Crowe hit a pair of homers and drove in four runs in Cincinnati's triumph over the Giants. Brooks Lawrence notched his 10th victory although he gave way to Raul Sanchez in the eighth. Curt Barclay was the loser.

Ernie Banks' squeeze bunt with two out in the seventh inning brought in Bob Speake with the Cubs' winning run. Moe Drabowsky had to have help from Dick Littlefield for his fifth win while Ronnie Kline suffered his 13th setback.

Bob Turley limited the Tigers to six hits and Jerry Coleman and Yogi Berra each homered off Jim Bunning for the Yankees' victory. Coleman's homer was his first in three years while Berra's was his 15th of the season.

Left hander Chuck Stobbs of the Senators helped his own cause by driving in two runs with a pair of hits in gaining his third victory of the season at Cleveland's expense.

The White Sox nixed southpaw Bill Wight for six hits and seven walks in beating Baltimore. Bob Keegan recorded his fifth straight victory and sixth of the season although rookie Bill Fischer had to get the last two outs in the ninth.

LADDER DERBY

The ladies took a hand in events at Saanich Inlet Wednesday.

Holder of the top rung in the ninth week of Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association ladder derby is now Mrs. M. Holmes, who weighed in a 21-pound, nine-ounce salmon to top second-place Bill Burrows' entry by an even eight pounds.

Sid Upton, however, is technically in first place. His 26-pound, three-ounce won't get him a ladder berth because he's already qualified, but it stands a good chance to win him first-prize money of $15 for the weekly competition.

Unofficial ladder list:

1—Mrs. M. Holmes 21.9
2—Bill Burrows 21.9
3—Tom O'Neil 21.9
4—Ed Cadillac 11.13

GARDEN CHAIR PENETRATES DEFENCE

Anyone Still for Chess?

LONDON (CP)—Magistrate Frank Milton, a chess enthusiast himself, listened with interest Wednesday to an account of how the Piotrowski gambit was born.

The occasion was a match between Alexander Piotrowski and Kazimierz Osiecki on the lawn of their jointly-owned house in Clapton. Osiecki had just taken Piotrowski's queen.

At this point, Osiecki told the magistrate, Piotrowski penetrated his king's Indian defence by striking him with a garden chair. Piotrowski recalled that his opponent countered by throwing the chess board in his face. The account of subsequent moves was somewhat confused.

The match was adjourned while the players retired for treatment of a fractured rib and assorted cuts and bruises. Each charged the other with assault.

Piotrowski said he originated the gambit when Osiecki captured his queen without saying "guard" when he threatened it on the previous move. The magistrate observed that this was a breach of continental chess etiquette.

Osiecki said he omitted the conventional warning because he anticipated his opponent would exchange queens.

The magistrate, observing that this had been the first chess match in 7,000 years to send both participants to hospital, declared it a draw by dismissing both charges.

Rocks Pay Higher Price For Win Over 'Bellies

Three Players Need Stitches As Irish Take Four-Point Lead

Shamrocks 14, Salmonbellies 7.

By DOUG PEDED

Everything costs more these days and Victoria Shamrocks are checking on the inflated cost of Inter-City Lacrosse League victories today.

New Westminster Salmonbellies charged more than the usual tariff of blood and bruises as Shamrocks picked up a 14-7 victory at Memorial Arena Wednesday night while the referees did little to keep the cost-of-winning index under control.

Outplayed at every turn by the hustling Rocks, Salmonbellies showed little of the drive that had carried them to three successive triumphs over the Irish, but they had lost none of their zest for heavy stickwork. As a result, three Shamrocks needed stitching jobs and both Jack Bionda and Jack Howse will be examined today for possible broken noses.

Peewee Turns in Starry Effort

Bionda came back in the final period to score two of the Rocks' last three goals and pass to Peewee Bradshaw for the other.

Playing before 3,038 paying customers, Bradshaw and Bionda paced the Rocks to the win that boosted the Victorians four points in front of Nanaimo Timbermen in the scramble for first place.

Although receiving his usual rugged attention from Doug McRory, Bionda added six points to his league-leading point total with four goals and two assists. Bradshaw, picking up a bushel of loose balls in

Penalties Help on Six Irish Goals

Johnston continued his fine work as the Rocks stretched the margin to 6-2 at the half and moved into an 11-5 lead in the third period.

Shamrocks, appearing to be able to score almost at will, had built up a commanding 11-2 midway in the third quarter. They eased up on their checking chores as the 'Bellies broke through for three straight goals, but had things well under control in the closing stages.

Sam Sizzles In First Round

DAYTON, O. (UP)—Sammy Snead, shooting one of his finest rounds, led 64 survivors into two sudden-death 18-hole rounds in the PGA golf championship today with all the top favorites still in the running.

Doug Ford, the favorite; Walter Burkemo, one of the greatest match players in the game; defending champion Jackie Burke, U.S. Open king Dick Mayer and most of the other "name" golfers still were in the running along with Snead, who is gunning for his fourth PGA championship.

Three ex-champs fell by the wayside in the opening 18-hole round of match play yesterday. Former champions Chick Harbert, Chandler Harper and Jim Turnesa were eliminated along with Ed Furgol, the 1954 U.S. Open champion.

Snead, despite calling a penalty on himself which cost him the 11th hole, defeated John Serafin of Pittsford, Pa., 4 and 2, as he overpowered the hilly 6,773-yard Miami Valley Golf Club. He was six under par for the 16 holes it took him to close out the match.

That was the best golf of a day which produced 19 extra-hole matches of the 64 that were played. In another brilliant exhibition, Gene Littler, who is in the tournament on a pass, bested Don Fairfield, 1 up, in a battle of birdies.

PICKED UP BALL

Dow Finsterwald, another of the heralded youngsters who is playing in the event for the first time, made the second round when his opponent, Theodore Schleicher, called a penalty shot on himself on the 17th hole.

Snead called a penalty on himself because he picked up his ball, after putting his second shot on the par four 370-yard hole on the green. Serafin also was on, 18 feet from the cup while Sammy was 15 feet away. As he cleaned the ball, Snead realized it was against the rules. "You win the hole," he told Serafin. That cut Snead's margin to 1 up, for although he shot a four-under-par 32 on the

Sixth Title New Reason Decision Pleases Stan

STAN LEONARD
... sixth PGA title

By CANADIAN PRESS

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP)—Stan Leonard made probably the biggest decision of his life when he decided, at the age of 40, to give up a cushy club job and join golf's tournament trail. Financially, he's been a big success.

This was demonstrated the last two days when he won the 54-hole Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship for the sixth time. It gave him $750 and the Seagram Shield plus the satisfaction that his name in the record book appears six times, a record.

Leonard finished with a three-under-par 210 over the Kawartha Club layout to beat Toronto's Al Balding, first round leader who slipped to a three-over-par 74 on his last 18. Tied for second spot with Balding was Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon and Montreal who came up with an even-par 71 on his final 18.

Leonard's victory boosted his 1957 earnings to more than $12,000.

He plans to take it easy at his home club in Lachute, Que., for the next week or so before rejoining the big-time circuit at Chicago's Tam O'Shanter in early August.

"I'm not a bit sorry that I gave up my job in Vancouver to join the trail," Leonard said Wednesday night after his victory. "I'm physically and mentally beaten, but it's worth it," he added.

TWO STROKES BACK

Leonard wasn't given much of a chance to win when he started Wednesday's 36-holes two strokes behind Balding. The two hit even-par 71s in their second 18, but in the final round Balding slipped to a three-over-par 74 while Leonard birdied four holes, went one-over-par figures on three others to finish with a one-under-par 70.

Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver made a big recovery to finish one stroke behind Fletcher and Balding. After a shaky 73 first round, Tuesday, he shot rounds of 70 Wednesday for a 213 total.

Record Impost Fails To Stop Swoon's Son

CHICAGO (AP)—Swoon's Son, carrying a record impost of 132 pounds, easily captured the $38,000 Equippoise mile handicap at Arlington Park Wednesday.

The sturdy four-year-old colt won by 3 1/2 lengths over Call Me Lucky. Third was Fabius.

Hester Chalks Up Late TKO Verdict

SYDNEY (AP)—Kentucky-born Negro Billy Hester, 161, stopped Californian Ramon Fuentes, 161 1/2, in the ninth round of their scheduled 12-round bout at Sydney Stadium Monday night.

The referee signalled Hester the winner after inspecting a cut over Fuentes' right eyebrow, which later required two stitches to close.

Franie Morse Scores In Macdonald's Match

Victoria's veteran Franie Morse, firing for the Canadian Scottish Regiment in the 73rd annual B.C. Rifle Association meet at Blair Range in Vancouver, captured the Macdonald's Tobacco match Wednesday.

Morse overcame poor visibility and a blustery wind in compiling a score of 96 of a possible 100.

Frank Drysdale of the Canadian Scottish finished fifth at 94, while Ron McCreedy was ninth with 94. Also with 94, but in 11th spot, was Walter Burch of the RCN.

Canadian Scottish team also won the B.C. Electric match with a total of 372.

Top Vancouver Island marksmen in aggregate competition to date are Drysdale, Morse, Burch and Duncan Payne of Victoria.

Mounties Regain Second Spot

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vancouver Mounties were back by themselves in second place in the Pacific Coast League today — after sharing the spot for a day with San Diego Padres.

The Mounties gained revenge for their 10-4 loss Tuesday to Los Angeles by whipping the Angels, 11-5, at Los Angeles, while Hollywood Stars were downing San Diego 3-1 behind George Witt's two-hit pitching.

San Francisco got 16 hits to Portland's eight. The Seals went wild in the third, snagging all but two of their eight runs on seven hits and a Beaver error, while at San Diego, Witt's two-hitter for Hollywood held the Padres to one run. Leo Rodriguez scored the winning tally for the Stars in the sixth on a Padre error.

Vancouver squared the series at Los Angeles with its six-run edge. At the same time the Mounties broke a second place league tie with San Diego. At one time in the game, Vancouver had a nine-run lead. Jim Fridley hit his 10th homer to cap a four-run Angel rally in the sixth. The runner-up Mounties trail the Seals by four games. Hollywood is third, 4 1/2 games back.

Kins Start Fast To Slug Tuglets

Kinsmen battled their way into a virtual first place tie with league leading Automecs Wednesday night at Jaycee Park when the American Little Leaguers scored the most lopsided victory of the season, against Tuglets, winning by a score of 18-3.

On the mound for the winners were Richard Jolly and Dennis Thompson, who combined to hold the losers to a single safety.

The first inning broke the back of the Tuglet defense when Kinsmen hammered home 12 of their runs.

Mawson-Gage claxmed an up-hill battle Wednesday when they won themselves the fourth playoff spot in the Carnarvon Pony League by taking their fourth straight game, downing Oak Bay Police, 11-8, in a sudden-death game at Carnarvon Park.

They got away to a fast start racking up eight first inning runs, adding a pair in the fifth and one in the sixth. While pitcher Gordon Archer hurled a four-hitter at Oak Bay.

REGINA BEACH, Sask. (CP)—Three persons were snatched from almost certain death Wednesday after clinging for 20 minutes to the handrail of a sailboat which capsized in the icy waters of Last Mountain Lake during a savage summer storm.

SECOND CHANCE JULY 31 FOR POLIO SHOTS

Almost 100 children, who failed to report to Health and Welfare Centre July 3 for Salk vaccination, will have a second chance to attend a special clinic.

It will be held at the Cook Street centre, July 31.

Parents of pre-school children should phone 2-8286 for information about first and successive injections. It is thought summer vacations are responsible for the low attendance at the last clinic following heavy registration.

Three Killed In Ship Blast

NEW LONDON, Conn. (UP)—Three sailors were killed and eight others injured, four seriously, by a "king-sized" hand grenade which misfired Wednesday night aboard the navy escort vessel Somersworth.

The bodies of the dead were "severely mangled" by fragments from the 2½-pound charge of TNT in the grenade which is used in underwater sound experiments. Capt. Walter Wellham, chief medical officer at the navy base here, said.

Youth Club Election Delayed to September

First general election of the National Youth Club has been postponed until late September so that members now on vacation may attend.

By that time club officers also hope membership will increase from 700 to 1,000, acting-president Norm Heseltine said. The meeting originally was scheduled for this week.

A general club meeting, followed by a dance, will be held at the CCF hall, Douglas Street, Friday at 7.30 p.m., when plans Severely cut and bruised by hailstones, Don Silverson of Saskatoon, his son, Lorne, 6, and sister-in-law, Mrs. Ted Young of Prince George, B.C., were rescued by two Regina women and a 15-year-old boy.

Mr. Silverson, an experienced sailor and former Moose Jaw resident, was taking a pleasure cruise in the 18½-foot Sea Boots, when the storm suddenly hit the Regina Beach area, 45 miles northwest of Regina. The craft overturned just as the boat neared a moor buoy.

FOUNDED BY HAIL

As they hung to the handrail, the three were pounded by huge hailstones flung at them by 80-mile-an-hour winds. From waist to shoulders all were marked with ugly red welts and black bruises.

John Roosevelt's Secretary Takes Fatal Plunge

NEW YORK (AP)—Saying she was taking "the only way out," an attractive 24-year-old heiress plunged to her death from a 28th-floor Park Avenue penthouse Wednesday.

Patricia E. Philipp, daughter of Cyrus Philipp, a man prominent in Wisconsin Republican circles and granddaughter of Emanuel Philipp, a former governor of the state, left an unsigned 13-word note.

"Dear Hon—This is the only way out. You are not to blame," read the note. There was no clue as to the identity of "Hon." The body of the brunette, a secretary to John Roosevelt, youngest son of the late president, was found on the seventh-floor terrace roof of an adjoining office building.

Civil Service Protest Meeting Ends in Chaos

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Members of Essondale and Woodlands branches of the B.C. Government Employees Association walked out of a meeting here Wednesday night in protest against the association's acceptance of a wage increase offer from the B.C. government, a spokesman said.

The meeting was closed to the press. A spokesman for the organization, who asked not to be named, said the Essondale and Woodlands employees wanted the meeting open but the association executive stepped in and closed it.

He said that the 400 members attending indicated a "strong feeling of disapproval."

Many questions were ruled out of order. "The meeting ended in chaos," he said. Two members of the bargaining committee which accepted an average wage increase offer of 7½ per cent attended. They were president George Horridge and research director Jack Maguire.

Although the meeting was closed to newspapermen, radio CKWX quoted Mr. Maguire as saying the executive of the BCGEA accepted a lower than anticipated wage increase in favor of greater bargaining rights in the future.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

JAMBOREE JOTTINGS—British Columbia Scouts attending the jamboree are divided into three troops under District Commissioner Fred J. Greer of Langley, district commissioner Harold J. Shives of Richmond, and district commissioner E.F. (Ted) Williams of Prince George.

Their part of the Canadian activities will be a pioneering display to be headed by Peter Kendrick, North Vancouver. They will also take part in a play depicting the lives of the Capilano Indian tribe. This will be supervised by assistant scoutmaster Gordon Archibald of North Vancouver.

During the stay in England before the jamboree, the B.C. Scouts will be billeted by Scouts in Surrey and will be taken on tours of London and nearby points.

The equipment the Scouts will be using at the jamboree, some 22 tons, has been shipped ahead by freight and boat.

During their stay at Sutton Coldfield the Canadian Scouts will have an opportunity to see a remarkable man, the secretary of the local Boy Scout group at that town. He has been blind for the past 14 years, but writes the minutes of the association in Braille and reads them steadily without any hesitation.

On July 6 Lord Rowallan, Chief Scout of the British Commonwealth, was invested with the Honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws at the Birmingham University.

Lord Rowallan will take the salute of the march past at the opening of the Jubilee jamboree August 1.

At the last jamboree that B.P. at that time Chief Scout of the world attended before he died, he said:

"These great jamborees... will have a vital and very far-reaching effect throughout the world in the cause of peace, and so pledge all of you here in this great assembly of youth to do your utmost to establish friendship among the Scouts of all nations."

INSPIRED BY CANADA

Scout Headquarters Gets Book by B-P

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP)—The beauties of Canada brought out the artist in warrior-scout Lord Baden-Powell.

The South African war hero and founder of the Boy Scout movement drew sketches of the places he saw and even wrote a poetic essay about Canada's autumn in a personal diary.

The combined diary-scribble book has been turned over to Canadian headquarters here by former chief executive commissioner Dr. John A. Stiles.

PENS SCOUT HISTORY

It was sent to Dr. Stiles, first Canadian head of the movement and former dean of engineering at the University of New Brunswick, by Lady Baden-Powell when she learned he was writing a history of the movement in Canada.

Dr. Stiles is nearing completion of his history. The book contains hundreds of souvenirs of Baden-Powell's first visit to Canada in 1910, ranging from personal notes and a railway ticket to photographs and an 1898 Canadian $1 bill.

"B.P." as scouts affectionately called their founder, was so impressed with Canada that he visited here several times before his death in 1941 at the age of 84.

Clippings from papers across the country describe his visits to Victoria, Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary, Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa, and Quebec City during the 1910 tour.

He supplemented these with photographs of most of the cities he visited and sketches and water colors he made in Quebec City, Winnipeg and the Rockies.

WIDE VARIETY

Other photos show huge piles of lumber, a log jam, and dog teams in the north; Buffalo Bill with a young Boy Scout and an Indian chief; canoes, and hunters with a dead moose.

Personal photos show friends he met during the tour, dressed in the styles of the early 1900s. Glued on a back page is a letter to B.P. from United States President Theodore Roosevelt agreeing "that ordinary athletic sports, excellent though they are, do not take the place of life in the open as you teach it."

The man who founded the Boy Scout movement in 1907 was so impressed with the Canadian autumn he wrote a poetic tribute to the season of multi-colors called "A Kiss in Canada."

A typed copy, "bylined" General Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, is glued on the book. "No one has seen autumn tints till he has been to Canada," he wrote, "and nobody has seen them who does not long to see them again."

Ship Size Limits For Seaway Set By Authorities

OTTAWA (CP)—Maximum size limits for St. Lawrence Seaway shipping, announced Wednesday, will permit use of the route by all Great Lakes vessels now in use or under construction.

The limits—730 feet long and 75 feet wide—were set out in a joint statement by Canada's St. Lawrence Seaway Authority and the American St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation.

A spokesman for Canadian ship owners said that group is "very satisfied" with the decision.

Ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions to select to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Baile Bornstein, 11, Portland, Maine, for his question:

Why Does an Ostrich Hide His Head in the Sand?

Suppose you could lick like a mule, run like a deer, and roar like a lion. Would you hide your head in the sand when trouble threatened? Of course not. And neither does the ostrich. If the old rumor were true, there could be no ostriches in the world. The lions would have gobbled them all up long ago. For you can imagine what a sensible lion would do if he saw a big ostrich dinner anchored to the spot with his head stuck in the ground. He would lick his yellow chops, grin happily and pounce.

And what would happen if Mama Ostrich taught such silly tricks to her chicks? None of them would ever grow up to have chicks of her own. That's how come we know that this rumor about ostriches burying their heads is false. Besides, did you ever wonder how the big bird could breathe with his head in the sand? Like all birds, he breathes through nostrils in his beak and like any other bird, he would suffocate in the sand.

The ostrich is the giant of the bird world and far from silly. He may stand seven feet tall and weigh 300 pounds. He is an expert kicker and can deliver a knockout wallop with either of his powerful legs. In addition, he has keen eyesight and can see trouble coming from afar. When he chooses, he can sound a muffled roar which is enough to scare any enemy smaller than a lion.

Instead of being a silly bird, the ostrich is so sensible that other animals of the African plains depend on his good judgment. The big bird is often seen in the company of gnus, zebras and other vegetarians who also fear the meat-hungry lions and cheetahs. These gentle grazers are using the towering ostrich as a lookout. From time to time, the big bird stretches up his tail neck and surveys the landscape. With his keen eyes he can detect a movement in the distant brush that might be a prowling cat.

When this happens, the sensible fellow does not stop to investigate further. He starts to run with 12 to 15 feet foot strides in the opposite direction from that suspicious rustle in the grass. And, of course, the gnus and the zebras all follow his shrewd example. There is a timely stampede to safety. The lion or the cheetah is foiled again.

In a chase, the ostrich can easily outrun the big cats. The cheetah can beat him in a short sprint, for this cat is the fastest fellow on four feet. The smart ostrich is usually far away before this spotted meat eater gets close enough. Should the cheetah trick him into close combat, the ostrich still stands a chance of winning with a knockout mule kick. When he gets free, he can cover the ground at 40 miles an hour and the cheetah falls behind after the first fast sprint.

With all these advantages, no ostrich needs to hide his head in the sand. And it stands to reason he never does. For the proud giant of the bird world can give a good account of himself, even in the lion country of Africa which is his native home.

Andy sends a Nature Atlas of America to Richard Nelson, age 11, of Spokane, Washington, for his question:

What is Fuller's Earth?

Fuller's earth is a fine, pale powdery clay found in the ground. It is a mixture of minerals containing silica, magnesium, calcium and aluminum. Long ago it was discovered that Fuller's earth was a natural blotter with an ability to absorb grease. For ages it was used in the weaving industry. Old-time cloth makers were called fullers because woolen cloth had to be shrunk, or fullied, after it was woven. During this operation the cloth went through a final cleaning. Oils, greases and lanolins were removed and Nature's own cleaning powder was just the thing to sop up this unwanted dirt. It became known as Fuller's earth because the fullers used so much of it.

Nowadays, Fuller's earth is used as a filter in industry. We also buy it in smaller quantities for household cleaning. The wonderful stuff is fine for absorbing grease from dirty carpets and for removing oily finger marks from wallpaper.

Dors d'Oeuvre Entree To Eating Full Meal

NEWCASTLE, Eng. (AP)—A doctor has credited Diana Dors with practically demolishing anorexia nervosa.

Anorexia nervosa, it should be explained, is an obsessional refusal of food, and Diana Dors, it hardly seems necessary to explain, is a pretty curvy British movie queen.

There was a time when growing English schoolgirls were found suffering from anorexia nervosa in chagrin over their fast developing figures. But no more, said Dr. D. V. Hubble. He told the British Medical Association that the growing fame of Diana Dors had changed all that.

"The modern doctor," he said, "is more likely to be consulted by a flat-chested girl who has despaired of displaying a film star's curves."

LONDON (Reuters)—Cabbages and potatoes were in short supply in London groceries today, but generally near-normal supplies of fruit and vegetables moved despite a strike of 1,600 food wholesalers at the capital's main Covent Garden market. No Homey Publicity For Shapely Terry

By GENE HANDSAKER
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Terry Moore says they'll never take a publicity picture of her peeling potatoes, sweeping the floor or cuddling kiddies by the fireplace.

The shapely actress whose ermine-trimmed bathing suit brought whistles and huzzas from soldiers in Korea expounded.

"I feel that the less people know about your private life, the more glamorous you are."

Domestic-type publicity may be good for the likes of June Allyson or Debbie Reynolds because it goes with their screen roles, Terry continued.

"I may peel potatoes better than June Allyson, but, by golly, my public will never know it!"

"The boys who go to movies look at me romantically. That's why they don't want to see me sitting around the hearth with kids."

As for posing in an apron like an ever-faithful wife June Allyson—

"I don't play that kind of parts. I play sirens. I'm a natural blonde... blue eyes,

fresh scrubbed look. Don't drink or smoke—in private life or pictures.

"A sexy tomboy, an outdoor girl. The kind of girl a guy dares to take home to mother.

Yes, I'm a wholesome sexpot—you can say that. I think that's

Play Ball With Hubby Anti-TV Wife Warned

BALTIMORE (AP)—A wife who turns off the telecast of a baseball game being watched by her husband is asking for trouble in the opinion of Magistrate Howard L. Aaron.

Thomas Mulholland, 32, was before the magistrate Wednesday on a charge of assaulting his wife. Mulholland testified his wife turned off their television set Tuesday night while he was watching Baltimore Orioles beating Chicago White Sox.

"I saw red and grabbed her by the throat," Mulholland admitted.

"You didn't wave the red flag in the bull's face, you pushed

Aaron told Mrs. Mulholland.

The magistrate released Mulholland without a verdict. But he advised him he has no legal right to strangle his wife.

CIVIL SERVICE INQUIRY TO START NEXT MONTH

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan is expected to begin his special inquiry into bargaining rights of B.C. civil servants sometime next month.

The chief justice, who was appointed as a one-man board of reference by the government, held a preliminary meeting here today with representatives of the government and the B.C. Government Employees' Association.

Chief Justice Sloan said he suggested to both sides that they meet together and "narrow down the issues," then report back to him.

If there is agreement between the government and civil servants on the scope of the inquiry, a date for submission of briefs will likely be fixed at the next meeting with the chief justice.

MONTE ROBERTS

I have been asked to tell all I know about fishing. The reason I have been asked to tell all I know about fishing is, the Solarium Derby will be held on Sunday. Many people are unaware of the fact that a ticket on the Solarium Derby allows one to fish, as well as win splendid prizes and help the youngsters at the Solarium. I would be only too happy to tell a great deal about fishing but (fortunately) I do not know very much about fishing.

There are two distinct parties involved in fishing (a) the catcher and (b) the caught.

Although I am told by such well-known wild life authorities as Mr. Charles Guiget and Mr. Douglas Peden that, in many cases, the two parties are better defined as (a) the skunked and (b) the skunker.

In any event, both parties require liquid. The party referred to as "the catcher" usually prefers iced tea or some similar cold beverage.

The party referred to as "the caught" insists on just plain water.

Very few fish are happy out of water, even when surrounded by crisp french fries and a slice of lemon.

Very few fishermen are happy in water, although they find themselves in this position from time to time, especially after an adequate supply of iced tea.

As you can see, fish and fishermen have little in common, and it is a wonder they get together as often as they do.

One reason fish have a cool attitude toward fishermen is, the fishermen are forever trying to feed the fish a line.

Most fish know better than to fall for this line but sometimes they feel sorry for the fisherman especially after the fisherman is fresh out of iced tea and a fish will take the line.

In most cases this results in a happy situation for both fish and fisherman.

The fish goes quietly about his business after breaking the line, and the fisherman rushes ashore and tells about the 50-pound lunker he almost caught.

However, on occasion the fish commits an error in judgment and winds up in the boat with the fisherman.

This is anything but a happy situation for fish or fisherman, the fish being apt to die, and the fisherman compelled to weigh him on scales showing a full three pounds.

This is all I know about fishing, except it is a good thing for the Solarium kiddies.

What I have against the Solarium Derby is, it is bound to lead to pictures of dead fish in the paper.

DUNFORD DRAGNET LOCATES LOOT

Six-day shopping week mystery shopper was nabbed Wednesday. She is Mrs. Rae Erb, left. Mrs. Nice Dunford, 1981 Colwood Crescent, right, was first of 10 persons to challenge Mrs. Erb. Mrs. Dunford won $300. Little Dunfords, Vito, 6; Lisa, 3; and Marius, 1, were proud of sharp-eyed mother. New mystery shopper will be on streets next Wednesday. Prize for her capture is $100, or $200 if she is uncaptured before July 31—last day of the weekly event. Sponsors are downtown merchants.

Strike Action Sought By 200 Milk Workers

A strike that could reduce Greater Victoria's milk supply to a mere trickle is threatened in the application of the employees of the city's four largest milk distributors for a government-supervised strike vote.

The 200 drivers and plant employees have applied to the labor department for the vote, and it is suggested it will be made during the week of July 29.

Before a strike is called, though, plans likely will be made for emergency deliveries.

Members of Local 464, Milk Salesmen and Dairy Employees' Union, asked for the vote after the distributors rejected a unanimous conciliation board report recommending continuation of the present six-day delivery schedule, and a $30-a-month raise for driver salesmen and $32 for plant employees.

Companies concerned, Northwestern Creamery Ltd., Palm Dairies Ltd., Shepherd's Dairy Ltd. and Island Farms Dairies Co-operative Association, protested they could not afford to give the raise without some savings through curtailed delivery.

Deliveries appear to be the chief point of difference between the disputing parties, since the dairies urged the conciliation board to recommend a five-day schedule with Wednesday and Sunday free.

The union wants a skip-a-day system, in which drivers who each have two routes, supply one route each Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and the other each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

MORE WORK

"The skip-a-day system makes for more even work days for both drivers and plant employees," said Ben McCrom, Vancouver, business agent for the union.

"If a strike were called, we would be prepared to work something out with the dairies for supply and delivery of milk to those with real need," Mr. McCrom said. "We are not so badly off that we have to fight children and sick persons in hospitals. Our dispute is with the dairies."

W. G. Stone, Victoria, was chairman of the board making the unanimous report. Philip Fleming, Victoria, was employees' nominee, and Robert M. Strachan, Nanaimo (Leader of the CCF), was nominee for the employees.

Third $28 Look Asked by Smith

City MLA Donald Smith said today a government order extending the $28 tax rebate to more landlords is "not completely satisfactory."

"It's a step in the right direction," the government member and city alderman said, "but it won't be satisfactory until the act is completely amended."

The provincial finance department sent out an order to municipal tax collectors Wednesday which relaxed its interpretation of the Provincial Homeowner Grant Act passed at the spring legislature session.

Homeowners who rent out up to one house-keeping unit and three single rooms now are eligible for the $28 rebate. Before, anyone who rented more than one house-keeping unit was ineligible.

FOLLOWS PROTEST

The relaxing order followed a meeting of the Victoria Social Credit Constituency Association Monday night at which a resolution criticizing "discriminatory" allocation of the act was passed unanimously.

This resolution still will be placed before the provincial Social Credit convention in October, and Mr. Smith said he will support it again there.

He maintains that all homeowners should get the $28 rebate if they live on the premises, no matter how many rooms they rent. This would apply to apartment blocks too.

WHY NOT?

"What about the man who rents four sleeping rooms? Why shouldn't he get it when the man next door who has three rooms is eligible?"

Mr. Smith said it's "only logical" to go all the way and not draw any dividing limit.

He estimated that "hundreds" of homeowners in this area are still deprived of the rebate.

"This is a very excellent bill,"

Mr. Smith said, "but it didn't turn out the way we expected."

"But we're making progress, and I think the government will take a 'third look'."

Under the new interpretation, the three single rooms which can be rented in addition to one house-keeping unit, may have either plumbing or cooking facilities.

Neighbors and fellow workers—at Evans, Coleman & Johnson Bros. Ltd., where Mr. Smith was truck mechanic, said he was a good swimmer and that they are hopeful he will have survived.

A son, Eric, 12, accompanied his parents on the camping trip, a usual summer routine for the family. An older daughter, Betty, is in Victoria.

AT HBC HISTORICAL EXHIBIT

Bustle Hustled, Front to Rear

By DINAH KERR

A small human error Wednesday pinpointed just how long 100 years of B.C. history is.

It happened shortly before the opening of the Hudson's Bay Company's historical exhibit of the province.

Store employees dressed a dummy in an early settler's dress of plum-colored velvet—with a bustle at the front.

The bustle was hustled into its conventional position before provincial and civic officials—along with more than 500 Victorians and tourists—arrived.

Aplomb of the occasion suffered another relapse in mid-afternoon when a red-faced executive noted that a large picture of Sir Winston Churchill was labelled "present governor of the Hudson's Bay Company." He isn't—but W. J. Kerwick of England is. The sign was removed.

DOUGLAS LETTER

Exhibits, depicting the part played by the HBC in the history of the province, ranged from a plan of Victoria "showing improvements" in 1855 to a letter written by Sir James Douglas in 1852.

The first governor of B.C. acknowledged a letter, probably from the chief trader at Fort Langley, James Yale, adding "and I take advantage of the return canoe to reply to it."

"In reference to the colony of Vancouver Island," he wrote, "it has undoubtedly affected the trade in furs but not to the ruinous effect which you suppose."

The exhibit includes a red knee-length coat worn by an HBC officer when coastal trading forts were first established, gold dust scales used during the Cariboo gold rush, a Book of Common Prayer used in 1855 by the late Rev. Edward Cridge, chaplain to the HBC, and tribal dresses of interior and coast Salish Indians.

There were also replicas of the first ships to ply the coast and numerous drawings of Fort-Victoria about the time of the Fraser River gold rush in 1858.

The exhibit is being featured in the HBC's Douglas room for six weeks.

Surviving are the widow, Alice, at home, 1033 St. Patrick Street; two sons, Richard and Raymond; and two daughters, Mrs. T. Farmer and Mrs. J. Farmer, all of Victoria; nine grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Ellis, Courtenay.

Funeral will be held at McCall's chapel, Saturday at 11 a.m., and will be followed by cremation.

Venture Cadets Vancouver-Bound

Ship's company of HMCS Venture, including both junior and senior cadets of the Esquimalt naval officer training establishment, will visit Vancouver this weekend.

They will leave Friday and return Monday, embarked in HMCS Oriole, RCN's only commissioned sailing ship, and four harborcraft. Trip to the mainland city will include a visit Saturday to the Theatre Under the Stars production of "Where's Charley?"

BUS FUMES DISTURB COUNCILLOR

Saanich council health committee chairman Ainslie Worthington will ask council to authorize an investigation into exhaust fumes from diesel buses operating in Saanich.

He said today he feels an inspector should make a full report on whether exhaust fumes are noxious.

He said with introduction of new diesel vehicles by B.C. Electric Co. the prevalence of unpleasant fumes is increased over the amount of exhaust formerly expelled only by Vancouver Island Coach Lines buses in this area.

"Victoria is fortunate," he said, "in having such comfortable new equipment to ride in, but I think there should be a report."

COMING DOWN

Towering 147-ft. flagpole to replace the present pole pictured above at Beacon Hill Park will be brought here by Heaney's truck from McKay Lake Monday. The pole has undergone "seasoning" since 1955 when it was donated to the city by Mayo Lumber Co., Paldi, B.C. It will be erected in the memory of Mayo Singh, well-known island lumberman and philanthropist, who donated the present pole, now rotted, to the city.—(Times Photo)

Hodgkinson Funeral Set For Saturday

Richard Hodgkinson, 63, born in England, and Victoria resident for 52 years, died Wednesday in the Veterans' Hospital. He had been employed as a spray painter at HMC Dockyard until his retirement a year ago, and was a member of Camosun Lodge No. 60, A.F. & AM.

Surviving are the widow, Alice, at home, 1033 St. Patrick Street; two sons, Richard and Raymond; and two daughters, Mrs. T. Farmer and Mrs. J. Farmer, all of Victoria; nine grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Ellis, Courtenay.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Royal Jubilee Hospital advised council today it is buying a home and lot on Lee Street, east of the hospital to permit a new access to the laboratory. The building is to be used as a domicile for interns and other specialized hospital personnel. On advice of city solicitor T. P. O'Grady, finance committee, today recommended the property be removed from city tax rolls as part of the hospital plant.

City firemen's union officials asked permission of Victoria council fire wardens today to doff their tunics during summer months. They also asked that all four firemen holders of industrial first aid tickets be based at headquarters hall. Three are at present in outlying stations. The fire wardens, headed by Ald. A. I. Curtis, refused to interfere with dictum of Chief Frank Briers. He says coats should be worn to preserve dignity and to avoid necessity of issuing uniform belts. A personnel shift is due in January, he stated and until then first aid men must stay where they are.

Philip Keller will speak on "Photographing Big Game in East Africa" at a luncheon meeting of Victoria Lions Club at the Empress Hotel Friday noon.

Recommendations on civic grants to local charities, service and recreational groups were delayed again today at a meeting of Victoria council finance committee. Ald. Arthur Dowell was absent from the city. He is chairman of the committee which includes Mayor Percy Scurrell and Ald. A. I. Curtis. The matter will come up again probably next week. The committee must recommend to council how to disburse $25,000 in grants to 25 organizations which have asked over $37,000. YMCA got largest gift last year, $3,500 and $3,000 went to Victoria Symphony Orchestra.

Three frigates of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron will carry out a "shoot" in Juan de Fuca Strait Monday, on their way home from a six-week training cruise with ROTP cadets embarked.

HMC Ships Sussexvale, Ste. Therese and New Glasgow will fire at towed surface targets between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m.

They are scheduled to berth at HMC Dockyard at 4 p.m.

Objectives of the Humanist Fellowship will be the subject of an address by Harold Rafton, Andover, Mass., at a public meeting at 8 p.m., Friday, 721 Courtney.

Mr. Rafton is a former president of the Boston Humanist Fellowship.

Chairman of Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society, George E. Williams, resigned his office Wednesday night. His resignation followed disagreement within the group over financing of a proposed 23-unit housing project. Mr. Williams, who lives at 961 Tattersall, supports an early start with funds now available. Dissenting members feel the anticipated need of $75,000 should be obtained before a start is made. A September fund drive was discussed. A committee will ask Mr. Williams to reconsider his resignation.

A national "Civil Defence Day" will be marked for the first time in Canada Oct. 4. At a meeting of Greater Victoria Civil Defence officials Wednesday night chief instructor Robert Abbott was named head of a committee to arrange local displays and exhibitions at that time.

A communique from National headquarters has suggested, among other things, "parades through the city and a communications show with officers tapping out imaginary messages." CD co-ordinator Roger Peachey said today.

It's "Christmas in July" at the Empress Hotel.

A large display room on the mezzanine floor has been converted into a glittering winter wonderland complete with shiny colored tinsel, Santa Claus masks, reindeer, green gnomes, imitation snow, Christmas trees and mistletoe.

This, of course, is not intended for the general public but hotel guests, especially children, are lured to this commercial display by the Christmassy glow emanating in the corridor.

The display is put on by King Agencies of Vancouver for the benefit of Victoria stores already at work on their Christmas selling programs.

The average citizen, preoccupied with summer vacation plans, thinks of Christmas as a long way off. But storekeepers have to plan their campaigns months ahead.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

Visit to Garment District Discloses Many New Styles

By Nona Damaske (From New York)

Clothes... clothes... under-fur day dresses. Crepe, the big news fabric this season, was used for these dresses which this designer does to perfection. Formal gowns were sumptuous, yet elegantly simple. The highlight for me was a sheath of emerald green with a softly draped cowl back and the slight suggestion of a train.

We've been visiting the Seventh Avenue garment district where the actual production goes on. It isn't the most glamorous side of the picture but it is one of the most interesting phases.

In Adele Simpson's showroom we were shown her interesting collection that plucks fashion news out of the sky both in ideas and the names to go with them. Colors are most intriguing—meteor red, stardust, atmosphere green, vapor beige, moon white and Venus pink.

Fur trim on suits was again apparent and the favorite choice seemed to be the spotty furs. Personally, I don't care for them and I don't think they will be first choice in our city—but, one never knows!

A series of soft and airy sheer, cool dresses, frequently side draped, were shown for the Oregon Journal who was sitting next to me. I was on the situation. It seems that when the editors viewed his spring and summer collection in January, he appeared in a battered sweater that Rex Harrison had given him and which had been through countless performances of "My Fair Lady."

Co-ordinated with each costume was jewelry designed by Adele Simpson, a new field for this designer, and the final brush stroke to complete a perfect picture!

The designer herself was abroad but she did not forget the visiting fashion editors. A cheery greeting by wire was read and her assistant presented each of us with a pair of her personally designed earrings.

Another inspired collection we viewed on Seventh Avenue was that of Harvey Berin. A favorite of the visiting editors, Mr. Berin was introduced as being "very formally attired." Everyone laughed but I failed to see the joke as he was wearing a good-looking grey business suit.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Trouble Spots on Figure? These Exercises for You

Even the woman who is only a few pounds overweight often has trouble spots so far as her figure is concerned. I am just the trouble shooter to help you with those!

One of these is prevalent in most women past 40—fat under the shoulder blades and across the shoulders. Exercise can be most effective. Try the following ones.

2. Stand with your feet separated. Raise your arms overhead. Bend your trunk and swing your arms between your legs trying to spank yourself. Raise trunk and arms. Continue.

3. Stand tall. Place both hands on the top of your head, feet separated. Lower trunk to right angles to body. Keep the trunk and hands in this position as you swing your trunk from side to side, moving as far in each direction as possible. Do this slowly, feeling the pull. The pads of fat just below the waist on the back hips are also annoying to figure-conscious women. For this defect do the next two exercises:

1. Lie on the floor on your back with your arms extending out from your sides and resting on the floor, palms toward the floor. Bend both knees up close to the abdomen. Keep the knees in this position as you roll from side to side.

2. Stand erect with your feet separated and your arms side-ward, shoulder height. Raise your right arm up by your right ear. Keep in that position as you bend to the left, touching the left toe the Oregon Journal who was sitting next to me. I was on the situation. It seems that when the editors viewed his spring and summer collection in January, he appeared in a battered sweater that Rex Harrison had given him and which had been through countless performances of "My Fair Lady."

Co-ordinated with each costume was jewelry designed by Adele Simpson, a new field for this designer, and the final brush stroke to complete a perfect picture!

The designer herself was abroad but she did not forget the visiting fashion editors. A cheery greeting by wire was read and her assistant presented each of us with a pair of her personally designed earrings.

Another inspired collection we viewed on Seventh Avenue was that of Harvey Berin. A favorite of the visiting editors, Mr. Berin was introduced as being "very formally attired." Everyone laughed but I failed to see the joke as he was wearing a good-looking grey business suit.

On Etiquette

Grief No Cause for Neglect: was at such a low ebb in her feeling of gratitude in spite of it. That being the case, any one in her family, or a friend, or even a temporary "employee" could have written notes for her. Supposing this woman's sister had written the notes. She could have said: "Dear Mr. and Mrs. Cook, My sister, Ethel (Mrs. Henry Drake) has asked me to thank you for the beautiful spray of flowers you sent when her husband passed away. She was comforted by your thoughtfulness. Sincerely, Doris Blake (and in parenthesis) (Mrs. George William Blake)." Although sending thank you cards supplied by funeral directors is a cold substitute, it is better knowledge the many kindnesses would undoubtedly make her feel worse and conscience-stricken as time goes on. If she it for her. No matter how deep

Tartan Car Rug Folds To Form Its Own Case

By PENNY SAVER

Something new to carry with you on a picnic or to an outdoor concert—a car rug that forms its own zippered case when it's folded up. It makes a compact bundle that looks like a shopping bag, and it's easy to carry by its matching stitched-on handle.

The rug is English-made of wool tartan in an assortment of colorful patterns, with matching fringe. Opened out, there's a zippered square in the middle. Folded and zipped, you could carry a few extra items inside. Price is $11.95.

EASILY PACKED

Those of you who go on camping trips are likely looking for items that make the job of packing up the equipment as easy and quick as possible.

Cooking utensils can take up a good deal of room. I've found some sets of camp cooking pans that nest into each other to form one compact unit.

Smallest set is for one person, and consists of aluminum bowl, frying pan, cooking pot with lid, and cup, with detachable handle for the pot and pan. This is $2.29, and comes in a canvas case.

A large family set is made up of four plates, four cups, three cooking pots, frying pan, coffee pot with lid, and detachable handles for the pots, pan and coffee pot. Price is $10.95. Also useful for campers is a set of aluminum cutlery. The knife (with stainless steel blade), fork and spoon hook together. The set is 95 cents.

Quilted print pot-holders with magnetic stuffing will stick handily to the top or front of the stove. They're 29 cents each.

I'll be happy to tell you where I shopped today if you call me at 2-3131.

CANADIAN DEBUTANTES BOW TO QUEEN

LONDON (AP)—A sophisticated self-possessed group of 44 Canadian debutantes made a brief but nerve-racking curtsy today before the Queen.

The girls—some at European finishing schools, others just graduated, still others fresh off the boat from home—were presented at Buckingham Palace, and afterwards joined several hundred other guests at a garden party in the palace grounds.

Governor-General Massey of Canada attended the garden party and was in the royal enclosure. Massey is here on a two-month visit.

The Foresee Club, St. Joseph's Hospital, garden party at the home of Mrs. G. B. McKenzie, 647 Grenville Ave., Saturday, from 2 to 5 p.m. Home cooking, superfluities and candy stalls, raffles and entertainment for the children. Tea will be served. A Pet Cockroach in Ceylon; Women of 47 Countries Meet

By STELLA GUMMOW

Colombo, Ceylon.

"We are unbelievably here! At the lovely Mount Lavinia Hotel with the breakers of the Indian Ocean under our window and a pet cockroach appearing every so often and darting around the floor."

"We are waited on by an army of men in white coats and wrap-around skirts. The streets swarm with people and we have had our pictures taken with a cow-drawn cart. It is so like descriptions we have read but in reality, so different."

"The aggressive sellers of all products follow us when we leave the safety of the hotel and even the best shops have men on the doorsteps urging us to go in. I don't think we know a thing about high pressure salesmanship in Canada!"

"The monsoons are here! We arrived in pouring rain and it rains every day and the sea is rough. But it is a warm rain and it is cool and comfortable. We have a seven-mile drive from our hotel to the Grand Oriental where meetings are being held and it is a fascinating trip by special bus each day. The people and the cars and the cow-drawn carts are a never-ending source of interest."

"To meet in the east, women of every country is indeed an inspiration! Here, west and east have come together for a meeting and although our number is smaller than usual we have 27 countries represented. The gorgeous saris of our hostess group are a joy to behold and the grapevine has it that many of our women are going to have their own soon."

"A big get-together meeting was held tonight and we were entertained lavishly in eastern style with a beautiful Ceylon girl delighting us with her dances as she accompanied herself on a native drum."

"A cockroach has just run across the room and he is enormous! It all goes with the climate, the swaying coconut palms, the exotic trees and the beauty!"

Drums Herald Conference Opening

"It was a most impressive ceremony! The platform was decorated with the Samiti crest and colors and the Associated Women of the World crest. In the centre was an empty brass drum. We took our seats and immediately the native Ceylon drums sounded and officers and guests entered. They were preceded by dancing girls. The Governor was with the guests and after Lady de Soysa, ACWW vice-president, opened the conference he lit the first candle of the torch, followed by Mrs. A. N. Berry, ACWW president, who lit the second, then Lady de Soysa, the third."

"This torchlight ceremony is traditional with Ceylon people on ceremonial occasions and we felt greatly honored."

"Greetings were read from many countries and governments and the official address of the governor, who spoke excellent English, was impressive and thought-provoking. He traced the history of the ACWW and paid high tribute to our leaders, including our own Mrs. Alfred Watt and their Lady de Soysa, who later was given the title of Member of Honor in the ACWW."

"The Governor also said that Ceylon wished to live in peace and harmony with all."

"In the evening we were entertained by girls and boys who presented the traditional and graceful dances of Kandy. Lady de Soysa, who is a Christian, was there to greet us."

"Many of the Ceylon Samiti are Buddhists and so are the Indian women—but we all work together!"

SHE KNOWS WHERE SHE'S GOING

Lab Technician's Work Eye-Opening Says Honor Student Ruth Anne Gordon

By ANNE MAYHEW

"Any man or woman working as a lab technician is confronted with the realistic aspects of life," said attractive, dark-haired Ruth Anne Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Gordon, Valdez Place. "We are made aware of another side of humanity, the side that does not enjoy the health most of us do."

Ruth Anne has nearly finished her 18-month training course, and, in her own words, "it is so varied, there are so many different branches, that anyone who likes medicine should be able to find the work that interests him most."

After doing a job study in Grade 10, Ruth Anne became interested in a lab technician's work. She majored in science in high school, and took one year at Victoria College, studying the requisite subjects, such as chemistry, French, mathematics and zoology.

A few weeks of getting acquainted in the laboratory and Ruth Anne began work in the hematology department, studying blood.

"Requisitions are sent down by the doctor for a blood report on a certain patient," she explained, "and it is up to us to take the blood sample, analyze it, and send back a full report."

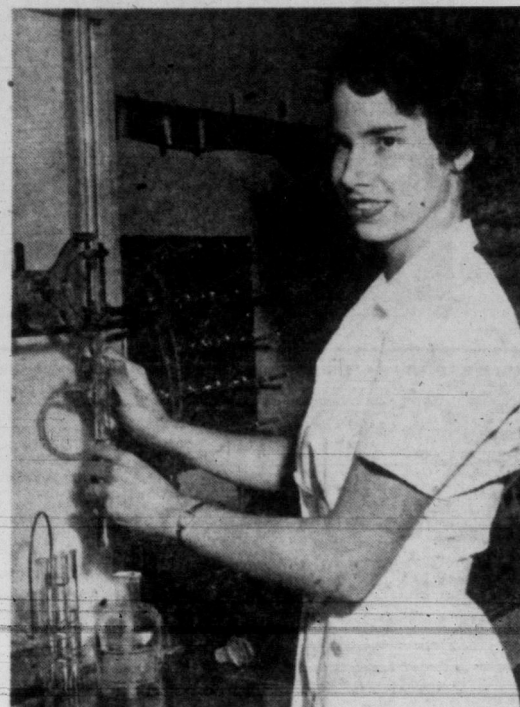

WILBUR HELPS

In spite of all her practice on "Wilbur"—a padded wooden "arm" with a rubber tube running underneath, representing a vein—Ruth Anne, like most students, was nervous in taking her first sample, mainly for fear of hurting the patient.

"Technique in taking blood takes years to perfect," she said. "That's one thing I love about my work. We can never stop learning. After graduation, we'll continue to learn just as much as we did as students."

Ruth Anne worked next in Blood Bank, matching blood for patients who were to receive transfusions. "This was a real challenge," she says. "It is a great feeling of achievement, when you have matched your first transfusion, to know that you have helped someone on the road to recovery."

Although she is not certain yet in which branch she wishes to specialize, Ruth Anne admits that she favors bacteriology. "A doctor depends more on lab work for diagnosis than most people think. We even suggest to him which drugs would be most effective against a germ," she added.

Ruth Anne has planted TB bacteria on different media and developed them in an incubator heated to body temperature. "We gown in the TB room here," she disclosed, "and have to be very careful."

MILK, ICE CREAM

One month in Serology, a small room where girls work amidst a dozen or so bottles of milk, has been included in the course. "It is actually a regional public health department. We test milk and ice cream, well water and beach water for contamination."

Ruth Anne has not yet finished her study in the Histology department, but she has done some examination of tissues which come from the operating room. All tissues that the doctor wants examined are dehydrated and put into wax blocks. Then the solidified tissue may be sliced into paper-thin pieces and put on a slide to be studied.

"As for a lab technician's future," Ruth Anne said, "hospitals are crying for us. A graduate may apply for jobs in hospitals anywhere in Canada. Myself, after I get to know the lab and how it's run, I would like sometime to go to an eastern hospital and do work there."

"Why do I like a lab technician's life? ... Well, mainly because although each girl is much on her own, she is working in a community effort. We all work together in our department, and all departments work together for the lab. The lab, in turn, is working for the hospital."

"Perhaps the best thing I can say," Ruth Anne went on, "is that I still can't define my work ... but I love it!"

MPs Move To Avert Hanging

LONDON (UP) - Members of parliament from both government and opposition joined today in an attempt to save a 22-year-old convicted murderer from hanging next Tuesday.
If John Vickers goes to the gallows, he will be the first person executed in Britain since parliament passed a bill last year calling for the abolition of capital punishment. Since that time the government has introduced legislation calling for the abolition of hanging except in cases of "deliberate and premeditated" murder.
Vickers stabbed an elderly woman to death while robbing her candy store but claimed he did not mean to kill her.
Laborite Sydney Silverman, who sponsored the original "no hanging" bill in parliament, organized a petition calling on the attorney general to appeal Vickers to appeal his sentence to the House of Lords, the highest appeal court in the land.

WORKS GROUP TO MEET IN EVENING

City council public works committee Wednesday agreed to hold future meetings in the evening.

Decision was reached, following a campaign by committee member Ald. Hugh Ramsay who wants both committee and council meetings slated for night hours.

At present, he says, most workmen are unable to consider standing for public office as their livelihood would be threatened.

Works chairman Ald. M. H. Mooney and remaining member Ald. J. Donald Smith agreed to "try" night committee sessions.

He was commenting on a statement by publicity commissioner George Warren that the Victoria and Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau is being bombarded with inquiries for room space by disappointed tourists.

"We maintain an information booth at the gas station at the corner of Gorge Road and the Fountain Circle," said Mr. Lowndes, "and it is open until 11.40 p.m. every day."

"No one who has inquired there has been refused proper accommodation."

Boys Who Killed Baby Returned To Mother's Care

HULL, Eng., (Reuters)—Two brothers aged six and seven, who killed an eight-week-old baby, were allowed by juvenile court to return to the care of their mother Wednesday.

"If we let you go will you promise to be good boys?" they were asked by the court chairman. They replied: "Yes."

The boys, brought before the court for being in need of care and attention, took the baby from his carriage and dumped it with a fractured skull on a neighbor's doorstep.

The court decided against placing them in the care of authorities because "a strong bond of affection" existed between them and their 27-year-old mother. In English law a child of less than eight is considered incapable of committing crime.

560,000 Eligible for $20 Bonus From Oil Riches of Alberta

EDMONTON (CP)—An estimated 560,000 Albertans are eligible this year for a $20 bounty from their provincial government.

It is called a "citizen's participation dividend"—participation, the Social Credit government says, in public revenues from oil development. Next year the dividend may be bigger.

The government announced Wednesday that the $20 dividend can be picked up between Sept. 1 and the end of the year at chartered banks, Alberta treasury branches or other agencies which may be designated by the cabinet later.

The applicant must declare that he is a Canadian citizen, or British subject, will be at least 21 before the year is out, and has lived in Alberta two years preceding payment and any other eight years.

These qualifications—part of the dividend legislation passed last spring—will eliminate roughly half Alberta's 1,100,000 population. The government estimated Wednesday that 80 per cent of the 700,000 persons over 21 in Alberta will be eligible this year.

The 1957 dividend fund will be $11,496,496—one-third the total oil and natural gas royalties, paid into provincial coffers during 1956. The dividend legislation, which weathered a storm of opposition in the Alberta legislature last spring, provides that the same proportion of royalty revenue will be set aside for the dividends each year.

It is probable that the annual dividend funds will increase as long as the oil industry continues to expand. Government officials have predicted that population boosts—meaning more persons eligible—would offset the increases in individual dividends only slightly.

GAS WEALTH

The first foreseeable increase in royalties would be from natural gas production, stepped up to meet demands of the trans-Canada pipeline. This, Premier Manning has said, would add $10,000 to $12,000 daily to provincial revenues.

He also foresees increased pipeline capacity to the west coast. With Alberta wells capable of producing 300,000 barrels daily beyond the present average of 400,000 barrels, extra handling facilities could mean another $16,000,000 a year in royalties.

When the dividends were announced at last spring's session, the premier described them as a distribution "being made in order that Albertans may share personally in the prosperity resulting from development of the oil industry."

This prosperity has contributed $640,000,000 to the public treasury since the Leduc discovery of 1947.

OPPOSITION BLASTS

The premier and his cabinet have repeatedly denied opposition claims that the new dividend scheme is actually a watered down version of the 1955 Social Credit pledge of $25 a month for everyone.

Liberal and Conservative members, while unsuccessfully moving three non-confidence motions and a six-months' hold on the dividend bill, described the payments as "paleface treaty money," "a piddling payment," "political skulduggery," and "the final and irrevocable act of folly."

'Wise' Colonialism Praised by Stevenson

LENNO, Italy (UP)—Adlai Stevenson Wednesday praised the "enlightened, responsible" colonialism of Britain and France in Central Africa. He said it was extremely impressive and little understood by the rest of the world.

"We have no concept at home of how far the French have gone in realizing the goals of local administration and self rule in French West Africa," he said. "The British are likewise moving rapidly—more rapidly than some people think wise."

"They deserve great credit for their efforts instead of being denounced as they frequently are as 'colonialists,'" Stevenson said in an interview after a major tour of Africa.

GREAT ANXIETY

"For the most part, Britain, France and the other colonial nations of Western Europe are exercising their African colonial responsibilities in a most advanced, responsible and enlightened manner," the Democratic presidential candidate said.

Stevenson specifically excluded the Union of South Africa and North Africa from his statements. He said South Africa's "apartheid" or total segregation policy is "neither practical nor wise," and added, "I have great anxiety for the future of this country."

He expressed concern for the situation in Algeria and said, "I do not think the French have fully faced the painful realities of the Algerian situation."

Stevenson said the current problem in Africa was that of "translating western concepts of democracy into patterns readily understandable to people just emerging from a basically uncivilized state."

GREAT CHANCE

He said Central Africa offered the west a great chance to direct the revolution of a major part of the continent into a sound, sensible democratic direction and that he was profoundly impressed with such efforts being made by Europe's colonial powers.

Stevenson had no good to say for the Eisenhower doctrine and said, "I have yet to meet anyone, anywhere in my travels who feels our management of Middle Eastern affairs in the last few years has been good or has brought us any credit."

Fishing Thieves Net Good Catch

ATTLEBORO, Mass. (AP)—Thieves went fishing at the Dante-Bits Biscuit Company Wednesday and landed between $1,200 and $1,500. Manager George Bain told police the intruders fashioned a fish hook from wires and pulled the night deposits from a safe used by route salesmen who dropped their receipts through an outside slot into an inside safe.

Spain Marks Civil War Anniversary With Eye on Monarchy's Return

MADRID (Reuters)—Spain's 30,000,000 citizens today observed the 21st anniversary of the outbreak of the Civil War with a muted national holiday.

The three-year civil war, which began when Generalissimo Francisco Franco led a rising against the Republican government, ended with an estimated 200,000 deaths and a nation bitterly divided.

Most of today's rejoicing centred around the news this week that Franco, now head of state, has decided on eventual restoration of the monarchy to ensure that the country has an era of stability following his death or withdrawal from power.

SLATED FOR THRONE

It is widely believed that 13-year-old Prince Juan Carlos of Bourbon, son of the present pretender to the throne and a grandson of Spain's last king, Alfonso XIII, eventually will be selected as king.

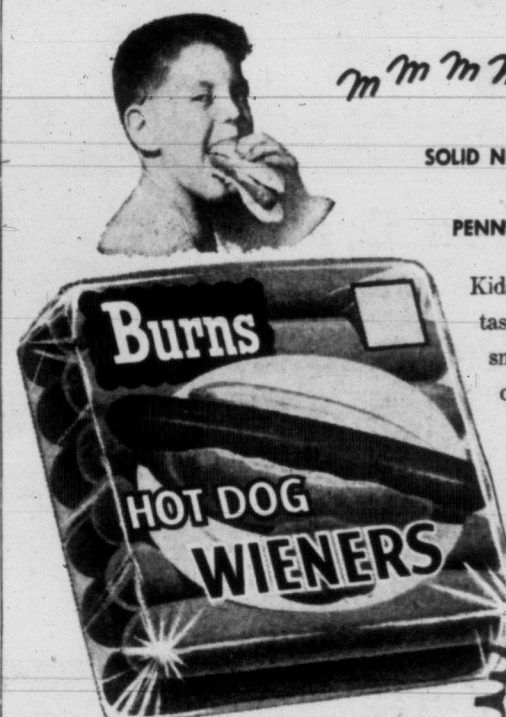

The handsome, six-foot prince has just completed two years at Spain's Saragossa Military Academy and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Spanish Army.

Next year he goes to a Spanish Marine Naval College for a year's additional training—all pointing to his eventual succession to the throne.

Franco had hoped to be able to inaugurate "the valley of the fallen" war memorial today. But the ceremony was put off, presumably because he felt the moment had not yet arrived when he could bring Nationalists and Republicans together in a joint ceremony to honor their fallen dead.

400 EVACUATE HOMES AS RIVER DAM CRUMBLES

CAPULIN, Colo. (UP)—More than 400 residents of this small southern Colorado community fled from their homes today when officials warned a dam would burst "momentarily."

The state patrol said the spillway of the dam was crumbling "minute by minute" and residents were ordered to "head for high ground."

Police Board Will Probe Threat Against Teacher

Special Session Called to Consider Laying of Charges

A special meeting of Esquimalt police commission will be held next week to consider laying charges in the broken-bottle assault of a high school teacher.

Police Commissioner Elvan Walters said today he will recommend police take action against an 18-year-old former Esquimalt High School student.

The meeting was announced by Reeve A. C. Wurtele, chairman of the three-man commission.

Mr. Walters said earlier he would call for the meeting. Date depends on availability of all commission members. Third member is D. L. Douglas.

Reeve Wurtele and Commissioner Walters disagree on who should prefer charges.

The commissioner says it should not be up to school teacher Patrick Thomas to lay charges. This would make the issue a personal matter, he thought.

The reeve says the teacher should have laid the charge when the incident occurred, May 31. He would not indicate whether he would support Commissioner Walters in the laying of a charge or charges by the police force.

'Is He Man or Mouse?'—Wurtele

"He (Mr. Thomas) ought to have been man enough to come down and lay a charge," said the reeve. "Is he man or mouse?"

"The police could lay a charge and if there were no witnesses, it could fall through."

"It's wrong this should have been allowed to go on so long and wrong I should learn now of the lack of discipline at the school."

"If they haven't strong enough characters, there are 101 ways (of enforcing discipline)."

The incident which occurred May 31 at an Esquimalt High School graduation party, was first brought to light Monday at a meeting of Greater Victoria School Board.

Principal A. C. Kelly said a student who had been dismissed a year earlier had come to the dance after he had been drinking.

The boy had been observed pressing a broken bottle against the stomach of Mr. Thomas and threatening:

"I'll kill you."

It was in Mr. Thomas' class the insolence, which caused the boy's dismissal, took place.

Mr. Thomas, now in Vancouver taking university summer instruction, had left an information with Esquimalt police. The police, on the night of the incident, had taken the boy from the school to his home after other teachers had interrupted the violence.

Chief Gilbert Stancombe said Tuesday it was up to Mr. Thomas to sign a complaint—a view held also by school board lawyer W. H. M. Haldane, Q.C.

'Social Evil' Should Be Corrected

Mr. Thomas, said from Vancouver, he would seek advice and consider the matter. While reluctant to press charges personally, he felt the situation represented a social evil which could not go uncorrected.

Commissioner Walters agrees. "If this is a mental case or a case of drinking, it is still an illness which should be treated."

Unless there is some action by the police, the boy is the victor in the circumstance and a dangerous precedent will have been allowed which could be repeated, he thought.

The matter should "certainly not" be forgotten.

U.K. Claims 'Gains' In Disarmament Quest

LONDON (AP)—Britain stated officially today that Russia and the West have made "substantial advances" since March in their quest for a partial disarmament agreement.

A white paper laid before Parliament said "there is, still a considerable divergence" between Russian and Western views of what should be written into a partial treaty to slow down the world arms race.

But the government document immediately added:

"Nevertheless it is true to say that substantial advances have been made in the present series of discussions in the five-power sub-committee of the United Nations disarmament commission. The prospects of a partial agreement have materially improved since March."

The document spelled out the main areas of agreement broadly reached thus far as covering:

Surprise attack—There should be a system of inspection from the skies and on the ground to provide an intercontinental alarm system. But the document commented:

"The Western powers regard the zones of inspection suggested by Russia April 30, as being unduly weighted in Soviet favor."

Conventional disarmament—Initial manpower cuts should be to levels of 2,500,000 men for the United States and Russia and 750,000 men for France and Britain.

Armaments—Acceptance of an American proposal cutting back armaments in proportion to manpower reductions. Specified quantities of arms would be surrendered to international control.

Military budgets—Spending should be cut. Russia has proposed a general 15 per cent reduction. The West prefers a method related to manpower and arms cuts, because national budgets do not truly reflect actual spending.

Firm Not Told Of Jet Crash Probe Ruling

(See also Page 3)

TORONTO (CP)—A spokesman for Avro Aircraft Limited said today the aircraft company never got any RCAF board of inquiry recommendation to test further the wing of the Mark V CF-100 jet interceptor.

A report from Ottawa earlier today quoted authoritative sources as saying that following a fatal crash of the Mark V CF-100 last year, an air force board of inquiry recommended structural tests of the wing and that these tests had not yet been carried out.

The Avro spokesman said the findings of RCAF inquiry boards are delivered to "the administrative heads of the RCAF" who then decide whether further action is to be taken.

He said the company got no air force instructions or recommendations following the crashes of Mark V CF-100s at Kinross, Mich. last year and on London's Cramlin airport this year.

Tory Ministers Take MP Oaths

OTTAWA (CP)—All but two members of the 17-member Progressive Conservative cabinet were sworn in today as members of the House of Commons by Commons clerk Leon J. Raymond.

The ceremony took place in the Privy Council chamber in the east block of the Parliament Building. The two cabinet members still to be sworn in as Commons members are Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Hon. W. J. Browne, minister without portfolio.

Axe-Swinging Logger Statue Attracting Strong Support

More support for the suggestion that a logger in action would be a fitting subject for the proposed centennial statue on the Legislative Buildings' lawn came in today's mail and in phone calls to the Times.

"I agree with you 100 per cent," says S. E. Webb, 115 Croft Street. "As you say it is the perfect symbol of B.C. life."

A. E. Pickford, who has had long experience of forestry in B.C., said:

"It is by far the best thing suggested so far. I'm very enthusiastic about it."

The idea of a logger in action for the centennial statue came from a picture of Alan Woodrow in the tree-chopping contest at Sooke loggers' sports Saturday. Times readers were invited to express their opinions.

Mrs. C. J. Smith of Rocky Point, said: "You couldn't find anything more fitting for this province of ours."

Her husband added "just one thing, let's have the tree a little bigger than the one in the picture." (Tree used in the chopping contest are about a foot in diameter so that the event does not take up too much time.)

U.S. Visit Tops With Nikita —If Invited

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Soviet diplomat says Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev would welcome an invitation to visit the United States.

Second Secretary Anatoli N. Gorskinev said Khrushchev would like to make trip in return for a visit to Russia by President Eisenhower.

The much-traveled Communist leader has hinted in the past he would like to visit the U.S.

The U.S. has never given any encouragement to the idea. However, the Soviet second secretary's statement in an interview to a capital radio station Wednesday came only a few hours after Eisenhower hinted that a visit from Soviet Defence Minister Georgi Zhukov might be welcome.

Administration officials said today the president is waging a determined and heartfelt campaign to break down the barrier of U.S.-Soviet mistrust and bring about a peaceful world.

Eisenhower said Wednesday at his conference "there is nothing I wouldn't try experimentally in order to bring about better relations."

He said in reply to a question an exchange of visits by Secretary of Defence Charles E. Wilson might be helpful.

The Soviet embassy, which usually declines to comment on anything, promptly called the idea a good one.

There was no immediate indication that the U.S. was about to propose the exchange of visits by the defence ministers. But in the past such casual beginnings have sometimes led to major actions.

'Flu Hits 26,000

Predicted high temperature today was in the low 70s, slated for mid-afternoon.

Syria, Israel Mass Men, Arms at Border

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UP)—Highways leading to the tense Syria-Israeli border are clogged with Syrian troop reinforcements moving into the area, reliable sources said today. Syria also was reported to have cancelled all army leaves.

The same sources quoted Syrian army officers as saying Israel had massed artillery and men at its border with Syria and in the demilitarized zones where Israel used tanks last week against Syrian guns in a 10-hour border battle.

A report from Damascus said an army alert was declared in Syria at start of the troop movements, but it was not established here whether the alert was regional or national.

The Damascus reports said the Syrian government attitude was to expect the worst—another Israeli attack—and not to be caught unprepared if a major attack comes.

Lebanon, which protested strongly Wednesday to Damascus against recent border violations by Syrian nationals, was sending a mission there today to discuss Syrian-Israeli border tensions. Lebanon has pledged all-out support to any Arab nation combatting Israeli aggression.

Hail, 80-Mile Winds Wreck Saskatchewan Wheat Crops

REGINA (CP)—A 200-mile trail of devastated crops, flattened farm buildings and battered summer cottages today stretches across Saskatchewan in the track of a violent hail, wind and rain storm described as one of the worst in the province's history.

Hailstones as large as hen's eggs and 80-mile-an-hour winds Wednesday afternoon levelled wheat fields and gardens, uprooted trees and stripped them of their leaves and bark and disrupted power and communication lines.

No serious injuries were reported but early estimates by insurance agents indicate total damage over an approximately 1,000-square-mile cultivated area will probably be at least several million dollars.

Hail adjusters said there is no doubt the storm was one of the worst in Saskatchewan history and it will be many days before the full extent of damage is known. Only about half the farms would have hail insurance.

Spawned in stifling 90-degree heat near Coderre, 40 miles southwest of Moose Jaw, the storm skirted Moose Jaw and then ripped through a 15-mile-wide strip, northeast to the Canora district, 150 miles north-east of Regina. Much-needed rains followed the storm centre but arrived too late for thirsty crops, flattened by hail and wind.

Heavy crop damage was reported west of Coderre, at Mortlach, Parkberg, Bethune, Punichy and Kellibier, among more than 20 communities hit by the storm.

OTTAWA (BUP) — The new Conservative government is noting with considerable satisfaction—if no official comment—the new concern Washington sources are manifesting over Canadian relations.

PROPELLER BEHEADS FARM GIRL

MILES CITY, Mont. (AP)—An airplane propeller decapitated a 13-year-old farm girl while she helped her father cut hay Wednesday.

Sharon Sammons had been pulling a hay rake near a tractor driven by her father, Ernest Sammons, on the Miles City airport grounds. A light plane was practising take-offs nearby.

The plane veered off the runway, bowled over a marker light and then struck the girl, investigators said.

The accident was witnessed by the father and airport officials.

He said Saturday night teenagers had been held in Esquimalt.

"Coun. (J. E.) Carey and I were kept on them. They went fine. There was a rule if the youngsters went out after they came to the dance, they had to stay out."

"A policeman would come around. It was definitely their job in my opinion."

He felt police on duty should check in at the high school dances as well.

The school board Monday recommended that off-duty police be hired to supervise night activities at the school. Reeve Wurtel protested the system. It is used in some Victoria high schools.

He said the Esquimalt police contract disallows officers to do other jobs when off duty. Such maintenance of discipline should be up to the teachers, he said.

"If anyone was to come at me with a broken bottle, I would immediately lay a charge with the police," he said.

26 Days Atop Pole Claimed As Record

MONTREAL (CP)—Russell Poissant, 44, heaved a sigh of relief, clambered back down to earth and claimed a North American flagpole-sitting record Wednesday night.

He spent 26 days atop his pole near the south shore community of Laprairie.

Eight firemen and police constables lowered Poissant from the pole at exactly 8:30 p.m. He had set up shop on a small platform perch at that time 26 days ago.

The changed United States attitude, which no longer takes Canadian acceptance of Washington diplomatic leadership for granted and no longer ignores completely Canadian protests against such adverse economic policies as wheat give-aways and sales gimmicks, is being claimed in cabinet circles here as a direct pay-off from the new Diefenbaker policy of closer Commonwealth relations.

Since the prime minister first revealed in London his master-plan for shifting the emphasis in Canadian trade policy from Washington to the Commonwealth—a course which inevitably would involve an equal shift in political and diplomatic emphasis—the following major developments have occurred south of the border:

—United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has taken the initiative in bringing about Canadian-United States talks in the course of a visit which he proposes to make to Ottawa, presumably inspired by a Diefenbaker bias towards basically Commonwealth relationships which has made Washington authorities mildly uneasy.

—Walter Berger, administrator of the United States Commodity Credit Corporation, has testified before a United States Senate Agricultural sub-committee that the U.S. barter sale program of farm products, against which Canada has protested repeatedly but vainly in the past, is to be controlled in future so that it will not interfere with normal international markets.

—The National Planning Association, an influential private organization, which operates close to the Washington government, has launched a movement under Douglas Stuart, one of the most important figures in the Republican party and a former United States ambassador to Canada, to study and remove the source of economic grievance between Canada and the U.S.

These three major developments are recognized in government circles here as a welcome and spectacular contrast to the indifferent policy Washington had towards Canada over the previous years of the Eisenhower administration.

Feeling of Enmity In Cairo, London Gone, Says Menon

CAIRO (AP)—Defence Minister V. K. Krishnan Menon of India said Wednesday after a four-hour meeting with President Nasser of Egypt that the problem of resumption of Anglo-Egyptian relations "now is limited to certain specific points."

"I have not found a feeling of enmity either in Cairo or London, but such matters as these need time before returning to normal," he said. "Among points of difference still remaining is the problem of British firms under sequestration."

Menon praised Nasser's Suez Canal plan under which Egypt operates the waterway. He said it was a brilliant manoeuvre. Menon made the comments before taking off for Lebanon on his way back to India.

Indian Prime Minister Nehru discussed British-Egyptian relations with Nasser on a visit here last week.

Business, Labor Ignore Ike's Inflation Pleas

WASHINGTON (AP)—Statistics indicated today that American business and labor are substantially ignoring President Eisenhower's heated pleas that they exercise self-restraint on wages and prices to curb inflation.

Wages keep on going up and so do prices—and the data indicate they have been going up more since January than before. It was in January that Eisenhower told the United States in his annual economic report it was time for some labor-management self-denial.

Data available from the government and reliable private sources show that wage rate settlements, although they have been few, have been somewhat higher so far in 1957 than in the comparable period in 1956.

Prices as reflected by the government's consumer price index—the most widely used measurement of the U.S. living costs—have never stopped going up in 1957.

The living cost index has risen to records for nine straight months in a climb that started 13 months ago. Government economists have forecast another living cost record will be announced in a few days.

Eisenhower has repeated several times since January his warning against speeding up inflation with wage and price boosts.

June 26 and again July 3 the president said business and labor will have to help hold the line against inflation because the government cannot do it alone.

CONTROLS THREAT

Unless there is some statesmanlike action by business and labor in avoiding uncalled-for price and wage boosts, Eisenhower said, the alternative may be government controls. He has made clear he doesn't want such controls in peacetime.

Government figures also reveal rising profits, indicating that 1957 promises to be the highest profits year in history.

Figures supplied by Eisenhower's council of economic advisers estimated corporation profits before taxes for the first quarter of 1957 at $46,500,000,000 annual rate compared with $43,700,000,000 for the same 1956 quarter.

Sheppard Murder Suspect 'Poor Find'

BERKELEY, Calif. (UP)—Dr. Paul Kirk, key defence consultant in the Dr. Samuel Sheppard murder case, today dismissed a newly confessed "suspect" in the murder of Marilyn Sheppard as a "poor possibility."

Kirk said however, that the fact that the "confessor," Florida convict Donald Wedler, 23, is a left-handed man "is interesting because I have known all along that the murderer was left-handed."

Wedler has never actually mentioned the name of Sheppard, but has confessed only to bludgeoning a housewife to death about the same time Marilyn Sheppard was murdered in her Cleveland, Ohio bedroom July 4, 1954.

Kirk, a criminologist at the University of California, flatly believes Dr. Sheppard, who is now serving a life sentence for the crime, is innocent.

"I have no doubt that Sheppard is innocent," he said.

Kirk said his theory that the murderer was left-handed on the position of blood stains on the wall. "The blows would have had to be struck by a left-handed man," he said.

Sheppard was right-handed, he added.

But he believes that Wedler is hardly worth considering as a suspect. However, Sheppard's brother, Dr. Stephen Sheppard, will fly to Florida to question Wedler.

Scents

SCENTS "are such peculiar things," she said. "This bracken and new-mown hay carry me right back to the island and our childhood."

For, though their islands were different, their heritage was very much the same.

It was made up of shabby, rambling house with wide verandah where bathing suits hung along the rail all summer long, and battered chairs were always loaded with books and magazines.

It was books, shelves of books. These books were read, and known. They didn't come all new and shiny from a Book of the Month Club. They were the classics mostly. And a lot of them were poetry.

The house was never very neat. There was too much coming and going of friends and relatives and children. Starfish, bird nests, papers on farm matters, English papers, charts of the waters round the island—all these you'd likely find near the surface in that house.

The conversation ranged all over. It was adults' memories of England, and interminable yarns about queer characters on the mainland and up the coast. It was talk of tides and boats and fishing. It was talk about farm and animals and soil. It was talk of books and politics.

There were so many facets to that island life, that, as middle-aged matrons, they found it hard to disentangle all the memories.

The long dirt road through the valley and down to the wharf came into them.

For that road was the only road of any consequence. It was the road they followed to go to school. (Though often they took the shorter trail through the bush). It was the road along which they drove in the wagon when they had to go to meet the boat.

And Boat Days were a chapter to themselves. They meant hitching up the team, and possibly loading the wagon. They meant opening farm gates, and riding in the back on the load (the carcass of a pig, maybe, or a calf, all carefully wrapped).

The homeward load was often sacks of grain or feed. And if the load were heavy, the children had to get out and walk up the hills to make it easier for the horses.

The rumble of wagon wheels and the hollow sound of horses' hooves on wooden bridges were a part of their childhood. Too, was the sound of the boat blowing for the port of call before their own.

They knew the little shed at the head of the wharf. And, many a time they huddled in there on winter days, grateful for the shelter from the wind. The sound of the postmaster stamping the mail was part of it, too.

They remembered the Sunday picnics, and the masses and masses of food.

It's a way of life that's vanishing, and certain aspects of it were peculiar to the islands.

But it's always astonishing me that, of the many middle-aged men and women who grew up on the islands, not one has written a book for children that's really caught the spirit of the islands, as they were.

For the material was there. Just as surely as it was on Prince Edward Island for "Anne of Green Gables." It would have to be a "period piece" now that conditions have changed so much. But it could be very real and gripping if it were written by someone who knows how to recapture the spirit of childhood.

Remember the time you walked over the bluffs alone, and thought you heard a cougar in the bush? Remember the time you lost yourself when you tried to take a short cut across the island? Remember how, in your terror, you thought you heard voices calling to you in the bush?

Remember the general store, and the squashed fly biscuits?

There are a thousand little details that could come alive if they were handled properly.

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Hundreds of people are now asking what they can do to cure hardening of the arteries, or to stave off the disease, or so stop it where it is after it has come, or perhaps to keep it from going on and producing another heart attack or another little stroke. Unfortunately, I haven't any very good answer to these questions.

Whether hardening of the arteries comes early or late to a man depends, I think, largely on his heredity. If his father and mother both lived until they were 90, the chances are that he, too, will be long-lived. But if his father and his father's brother dropped dead before the age of 55, his outlook for a long life is not so good.

For years we have known that, next to a poor heredity, eating too much and getting stout is probably the commonest contributory cause of either hardening or ulceration of the arteries. Of late, Dr. Ancel Keys has been traveling about the world studying the diets of those peoples who seldom have arteriosclerosis and heart attacks, and comparing them with the diets of those peoples (like Americans) who have much hardening of the arteries and many heart attacks. So far the evidence points to the bad effects of eating too much fat. People like the Japanese, who can afford very little fat in their diet, have a low incidence of heart attacks, while people like some of the Finns, who eat much butter and animal fat, have many heart attacks, as we do in America. We in America, with our large average income, are apparently eating too much fat. Interestingly, the descendants of Japanese living in California and eating too much fat, are getting heart attacks much as the rest of us Americans do.

CHOLESTEROL PROMINENT

Today, the medical literature is full of articles on the fat-like substance called cholesterol, which apparently has much to do with ulcerations in the arteries, and hence with heart attacks and little strokes. Some doctors now think that every effort should be made to cut down on the amount of cholesterol in the diet, but others, equally expert in this field, feel that this isn't the whole answer. One difficulty is that a man can eat no cholesterol and still have too much in his blood: his body can make it out of other foods.

Some men think that animal fats are worse than vegetable fats, and others think that "saturated fats" or hard fats are worse than unsaturated fats and the more liquid oils. But as yet there is no agreement on this. Dr. John Gofman, of the University of California, has just presented figures to indicate that if we live on too starchy a diet we can increase our chances of getting a heart attack.

Against this is the finding by Dr. Keys in Italy that people who get stout on macaroni are not very subject to heart attacks.

Along the way the experts have not yet explained to my satisfaction why women, and even those who live on rich food and get much fatter than do men, seldom get heart attacks.

Obviously, until the experts begin to agree on a few things, I do not feel I have the right to say to my patients, "You must eat this or you must not eat that." All I feel like saying is, "If you are stout and if you are eating much more than you need, and particularly if you are fond of much fat in your diet, you had better cut down on the total calories and on the total amount of fat."

SALTLESS FAD

Some people want to know if they should go without salt. Thank goodness, that fad is not being pushed as hard as it was a few years ago. The person I would put on a salt-poor diet would be one with a heart or kidney that had failed so much that he was a bit waterlogged. The removal of salt from the diet helps the person to get rid of an excess of fluid in his body. To take a man's salt away from him, simply because he has a little increase in blood pressure—so far as I can see—is unjustified. The wives of men who have been ordered onto a salt-poor diet tell me that, since they have been feeding their man tasteless food, he has been getting so angry with them every night at table that they think his blood pressure has been pushed up higher than it ever was!

Many people talk of a "salt-free" diet. Actually, it is very hard to devise a salt-free diet, and this is lucky because almost salt-free diets can kill the patient. One of the most salt-poor diets is the "rice diet," which can help a patient who is suffering from the severe symptoms of a very high blood pressure.

In all dietetics the wise physician tries to keep his head, and refuses to prescribe something which will make the patient's life and his wife's life unbearable. My friend, Dr. Irvine Page, of Cleveland, one of the country's experts on hardening of arteries, tells how, for about a year he lived on an almost fatless diet. He says it was the most miserable year of his life, and that he got so irritable that hardly any of his friends could stand him!

How to Torture Your Wife

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

Endive Makes Good Lettuce Substitute

Endive (en-div or en-deiv) makes a good substitute for lettuce and a welcome change in greens for fall salads.

The Batavian varieties look much like a cos lettuce, and when grown in a not too rich soil will withstand light frosts.

Seed is sown in drills the same as lettuce, the seedlings thinned early and the larger plants which develop later can be transplanted. Final spacing should be about nine inches.

To enhance the appearance of the leaves and to remove the bitterness, the centres of the plants are blanched. The outer leaves of a full grown plant are tied together and the entire plant covered with a darkened cloth or large flower pot.

Only one or two plants are blanched at a time because the inner leaves tend to rot in the damp atmosphere of late fall. Ventilation without too much exposure to light is important.

The curled varieties are less hardy than the Batavian and need the protection of cloches or a cold frame by late September. Plants of the curled types may be dug and replanted in boxes for blanching in a dark shed or basement.

Several home gardeners have enquired about the culture of endive since it made its appearance in local grocery stores about two years ago. Its nutty flavor has a special appeal to those who appreciate good salads.

Sowings, which should be small and repeated every 10 to 15 days, may be started now and continued until the end of August if protection can be given after the fall frost.

Civil Rights Bill to Bring Total Boycott?

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Lt. Gov. Guy Hardwick predicted Wednesday that Alabama white people will enforce a total boycott of Negroes if "this outrageous civil rights bill" now before the Senate becomes law and Negroes attempt to avail themselves of its provisions.

"All white men will, of necessity, be drawn together by common bonds of resistance," Hardwick told a Birmingham civic club. "And I predict they will refuse to employ, feed, clothe, or otherwise aid or assist Negroes, if the latter insist in disrupting and upsetting our way of life in Alabama."

Hardwick is presiding officer of the Alabama Senate and is considered a possible candidate for governor next year.

The lieutenant-governor said it is his opinion that "no man will be elected governor of Alabama unless he enters into a solemn pact with the voters of this state to maintain segregation, and further pledge he will not use the National Guard of Alabama, manning tanks to escort Negro children into white schools, as was done in Tennessee and Kentucky."

ARCTIC MONOPOLY

The world's entire supply of cryolite, used in the production of aluminum, comes from mines in Greenland.

"Better Collins ... yes?"

"It's the way the flavour blends that counts..."

That's why Hiram Walker's London Dry makes such good Collins—every time!

The fresh flavouring Botanicals are actually distilled with the spirits... and the flavour of each herb perfectly measured by an exclusive Hiram Walker method. The result is a really glorious Collins... clean, fresh, delightful... like a Collins ought to be!

"It's Flavour-Distilled... Smoother... Drier... Delicious!"

Douglas Foresees Key Role For CCF in 2-Party System

SASKATOON (CP) — Premier

T. C. Douglas says he foresees the time when the CCF party will form the core of one group in a realignment of Canadian political forces into a two-party system.

The Saskatchewan premier, addressing the party's annual provincial convention Wednesday night, said he had predicted in 1954 that there one day would be a Canadian right-wing government supported by the Conservatives, Social Credit and the Quebec Union Nationale.

He predicted that the Liberal party will disintegrate. The right wing would join the Conservatives and allies, while the left wing members would find their way into the CCF movement of farmer, labor and progressive groups.

"This had happened in England, Australia, New Zealand and the Scandinavian countries, Mr. Douglas said.

"If the CCF provides the right kind of leadership I believe it can rally the farmers, organized labor and the progressive elements of Canada behind its banner," he added.

With two parties aligned as he foresees them, the Canadian electorate would be able to choose clearly between two groups with vastly different social and political philosophies.

"The CCF must seize the opportunity which now presents itself to mobilize the progressive forces of this country and to present to Canadians a program designed to establish a more just and humane society," he told the convention. The CCF now holds the balance of power in the Commons.

Mr. Douglas disagreed with views that a minority government at Ottawa will mean "political instability."

He said that for 25 years there had been "virtually one-party government in Canada; the Liberals had such strength they ignored the opposition and were indifferent to public opinion, a situation of political stagnation—not stability."

Under the present conditions the Conservative government would "have to perform or perish."

The CCF members of the House found themselves in "delicate political equilibrium." They could not hope to persuade the government to adopt the CCF program, and it would be "a major accomplishment in Canadian parliamentary history if we can even force them to implement their own program."

The CCF members could not be timid. They had been presented with "the rare political opportunity to get for the Canadian people what they were promised by the Conservatives."

British Army To Sprout Wing

LONDON (AP) — Britain announced Wednesday her army will sprout a wing Sept. 1. War Secretary John Hare told the House of Commons a small group will be formed into the new British Army Air Corps. The corps will take over responsibility for its own light aircraft and helicopters. It will have no connection with the RAF.

Western Oils Hit By Profit-Taking

The market at Toronto was irregularly higher today in moderate trading. Base metals added more than one-half point and golds were up slightly more than one-quarter of a point.

Western oils, down more than a point after the first hour of trading, had reduced the loss in late afternoon.

A flurry of buying put prices slightly higher at New York today. Stocks and aircrafts showed some improvement. Oils and rails remained mixed.

AT NEW YORK most Canadian issues were fractionally higher. International Nickel added 1/4; Aluminum Ltd. was up 1/4; Hudson Bay Mining 1/4; and Canadian Pacific and Dome Mines 1/4 each.

Prominent Canadian issues on the American exchange included Jupiter Oils, up 1/16; Molybdenite, up 1/4; and Fargo Oil and Saphire Petroleum, each up 1/4. Off 1/16 were Scurry-Rainbow Oil and Eureka.

AT MONTREAL the industrial trend was narrowly mixed today in moderate trading on the exchange here.

Senior base metals were fractionally higher. McIntyre lost 1/4.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Sharp advances in flax prices were recorded today in fairly active trading on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included: Japan 828,000 bushels, Poland 715,000, United Kingdom 240,000 and Belgium a small quantity.

Lakehead prices of class two, IWA and domestic wheat were all unchanged from Wednesday.

(By James Richardson and Sons)

CHICAGO (AP)—Short covering and commercial buying boosted July and September soybean contracts well over a cent a bushel at times on the Board of Trade today but good harvesting weather was too much for the wheat market.

New crop soybeans showed less strength than the nearby contracts, largely because of good planting weather which leads traders to believe acreage might be increased.

CIVIL SERVICE INQUIRY TO START NEXT MONTH

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan is expected to begin his special inquiry into bargaining rights of B.C. civil servants sometime next month.

The chief justice, who was appointed as a one-man board of reference by the government, held a preliminary meeting here today with representatives of the government and the B.C. Government Employees' Association.

Chief Justice Sloan said he suggested to both sides that they meet together and "narrow down the issues," then report back to him.

If there is agreement between the government and civil servants on the scope of the inquiry, a date for submission of briefs will likely be fixed at the next meeting with the chief justice.

MONTE ROBERTS

I have been asked to tell all I know about fishing. The reason I have been asked to tell all I know about fishing is, the Solarium Derby will be held on Sunday. Many people are unaware of the fact that a ticket on the Solarium Derby allows one to fish, as well as win splendid prizes and help the youngsters at the Solarium. I would be only too happy to tell a great deal about fishing but (fortunately) I do not know very much about fishing.

There are two distinct parties involved in fishing (a) the catcher and (b) the caught.

Although I am told by such well-known wild life authorities as Mr. Charles Guiget and Mr. Douglas Peden that, in many cases, the two parties are better defined as (a) the skunked and (b) the skunker.

In any event, both parties require liquid. The party referred to as "the catcher" usually prefers iced tea or some similar cold beverage.

The party referred to as "the caught" insists on just plain water.

Very few fish are happy out of water, even when surrounded by crisp french fries and a slice of lemon.

Very few fishermen are happy in water, although they find themselves in this position from time to time, especially after an adequate supply of iced tea.

As you can see, fish and fishermen have little in common, and it is a wonder they get together as often as they do. One reason fish have a cool attitude toward fishermen is, the fishermen are forever trying to feed the fish a line.

Most fish know better than to fall for this line but sometimes they feel sorry for the fisherman especially after the fisherman is fresh out of iced tea and a fish will take the line.

In most cases this results in a happy situation for both fish and fisherman.

The fish goes quietly about his business after breaking the line, and the fisherman rushes ashore and tells about the 50-pound lunker he almost caught.

However, on occasion the fish commits an error in judgment and winds up in the boat with the fisherman.

This is anything but a happy situation for fish or fisherman, the fish being apt to die, and the fisherman compelled to weigh him on scales showing a full three pounds.

This is all I know about fishing, except it is a good thing for the Solarium kiddies.

What I have against the Solarium Derby is, it is bound to lead to pictures of dead fish in the paper.

DUNFORD DRAGNET LOCATES LOOT

Six-day shopping week mystery shopper was nabbed Wednesday. She is Mrs. Rae Erb, left. Mrs. Nice Dunford, 1981 Colwood Crescent, right, was first of 10 persons to challenge Mrs. Erb. Mrs. Dunford won $300. Little Dunfords, Vito, 6; Lisa, 3; and Marius, 1, were proud of sharp-eyed mother. New mystery shopper will be on streets next Wednesday. Prize for her capture is $100, or $200 if she is not caught before July 31—last day of the weekly event. Sponsors are downtown merchants.

Strike Action Sought By 200 Milk Workers

A strike that could reduce Greater Victoria's milk supply to a mere trickle is threatened in the application of the employees of the city's four largest milk distributors for a government-supervised strike vote.

The 200 drivers and plant employees have applied to the labor department for the vote, and it is suggested it will be made during the week of July 29.

Before a strike is called, though, plans likely will be made for emergency deliveries.

Members of Local 464, Milk Salesmen and Dairy Employees' Union, asked for the vote after the distributors rejected a unanimous conciliation board report recommending continuation of the present six-day delivery schedule, and a $30-a-month raise for driver salesmen and $32 for plant employees.

Companies concerned, North-western Creamery Ltd., Palm Dairies Ltd., Shepherd's Dairy Ltd. and Island Farms Dairies Co-operative Association, protested they could not afford to give the raise without some savings through curtailed delivery.

Deliveries appear to be the chief point of difference between the disputing parties, since the dairies urged the conciliation board to recommend a five-day schedule with Wednesday and Sunday free.

Traffic Chief For RCMP Posted to Regina

Traffic supervisor for the RCMP in British Columbia, A. Sgt. M. R. "Bud" Godfrey, 38, leaves Victoria about mid-August to take up the same position for Saskatchewan at "E" Division headquarters, Regina.

He will be replaced by A. S. Sgt. C. Stanyer, a member of the RCMP since 1935, who came here after 10 years service in Winnipeg.

Sgt. Godfrey was well known as a member of B.C. Police from 1941-50, and became a member of the RCMP when the federal force took over provincial police duties in August, 1950.

He served on the mainland and Vancouver Island before and after he joined the RCMP. Lately he has served at Colwood and Kamloops detachments and at "E" Division headquarters in Victoria.

Third $28 Look Asked by Smith

City MLA Donald Smith said today a government order extending the $28 tax rebate to more landlords is "not completely satisfactory."

"It's a step in the right direction," the government member and city alderman said, "but it won't be satisfactory until the act is completely amended."

The provincial finance department sent out an order to municipal tax collectors Wednesday which relaxed its interpretation of the Provincial Home-owner Grant Act passed at the spring legislature session.

Home-owners who rent out up to one house-keeping unit and three single rooms now are eligible for the $28 rebate. Before, anyone who rented more than one house-keeping unit was ineligible.

The relaxing order followed a meeting of the Victoria Social Credit Constituency Association Monday night at which a resolution criticizing "discriminatory" application of the act was passed unanimously.

This resolution still will be placed before the provincial Social Credit convention in October, and Mr. Smith said he will support it again there.

He maintains that all home-owners should get the $28 rebate if they live on the premises, no matter how many rooms they rent. This would apply to apartment blocks too.

Why not?

"What about the man who rents four sleeping rooms? Why shouldn't he get it when the man next door who has three rooms is eligible?"

Mr. Smith said it's "only logical" to go all the way and not draw any dividing limit.

He estimated that "hundreds" of home-owners in this area are still deprived of the rebate.

"This is a very excellent bill,"

Mr. Smith said, "but it didn't turn out the way we expected."

"But we're making progress, and I think the government will take a 'third look'."

Under the new interpretation, the three single rooms which can be rented in addition to one house-keeping unit, may have either plumbing or cooking facilities.

Mail Tampering, Losses Probed

Opened Letters Discovered In Washroom at Bus Depot

Disappearance of 15 to 20 pieces of mail and tampering with several other letters late Wednesday afternoon is being investigated by Victoria police and post office officials.

Police were told by a Vancouver Island Coach Lines dispatcher at 7:10 p.m. that a janitor had found a number of opened letters in a men's washroom at the bus depot.

Investigation showed they were part of a bundle of letters mailed from Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd., 711 Broughton Street, in a post box at Fort and Douglas at 5:10 p.m.

The remainder of the bundle was still unaccounted for this morning.

A news vendor told police he had seen two young boys playing around with the mail box at about 3:10 p.m. He then left his post in charge of another newspaper boy, with whom police were to talk today.

Victoria Mechanic Presumed Dead

Vacationer, 64, Believed Caught In Sudden Storm Off Miracle Beach

George H. Stade, 1079 Finlayson, is missing and presumed drowned following a sudden storm which caught him in his frail boat five miles off shore from the resort community of Miracle Beach.

Mr. Stade, aged 64 years, left the resort in a 10-foot canvas boat, powered by a three-horsepower outboard, at noon Tuesday on a sightseeing trip to Savary Island, about 12 miles away.

Four hours later the crew of the fisheries patrol vessel Stuart Post, operating out of Alert Bay, found his boat drifting in heavy seas.

Police could not establish identity of the small boat until his wife reported him missing at noon Wednesday.

An RCMP patrol boat from Powell River searched the area today, and an RCAF Otter aircraft from Sea Island crisscrossed the area Wednesday afternoon without finding a trace of the missing man.

Police said Georgia Strait was calm when he left the public camp at Miracle Beach, but that a sudden squall blew up shortly afterward.

Neighbors and fellow workers at Evans, Coleman & Johnson Bros. Ltd., where Mr. Stade was truck mechanic, said he was a good swimmer and that they are hopeful he will have survived.

BUS FUMES DISTURB COUNCILLOR

Saanich council health committee chairman Ainslie Worthington will ask council to authorize an investigation into exhaust fumes from diesel buses operating in Saanich.

He said today he feels an inspector should make a full report on whether exhaust fumes are noxious.

He said with introduction of new diesel vehicles by B.C. Electric Co. the prevalence of unpleasant fumes is increased over the amount of exhaust formerly expelled only by Vancouver Island Coach Lines buses in this area.

"Victoria is fortunate," he said, "in having such comfortable new equipment to ride in, but I think there should be a report."

Venture Cadets Vancouver-Bound

Ship's company of HMCS Venture, including both junior and senior cadets of the Esquimalt naval officer training establishment, will visit Vancouver this weekend.

They will leave Friday and return Monday, embarked in HMCS Oriole, RCN's only commissioned sailing ship, and four harborcraft. Trip to the mainland city will include a visit Saturday to the Theatre Under the Stars production of "Where's Charley?"

Q—How did Hecla Strait come to have that name? It does not seem to be of local origin.—Mrs. N. H. D.

A—That stretch of water between Queen Charlotte Islands and the mainland was named in 1861-62 by Capt. George Henry Richards, RN, after one of the ships in which he surveyed the B.C. coast.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Royal Jubilee Hospital advised council today it is buying a home and lot on Lee Street, east of the hospital to permit a new access to the laboratory. The building is to be used as a domicile for interns and other specialized hospital personnel. On advice of city solicitor T. P. O'Grady, finance committee, today recommended the property be removed from city tax rolls as part of the hospital plant.

City firemen's union officials asked permission of Victoria council fire wardens today to doff their tunics during summer months. They also asked that all four firemen holders of industrial first aid tickets be based at headquarters hall. Three are at present in outlying stations. The fire wardens, headed by Ald. A. I. Curtis, refused to interfere with dictum of Chief Frank Briens. He says coats should be worn to preserve dignity and to avoid necessity of issuing uniform belts. A personnel shift is due in January, he stated and until then first aid men must stay where they are.

Phillip Keller will speak on "Photographing Big Game in East Africa" at a luncheon meeting of Victoria Lions Club at the Empress Hotel Friday noon.

Recommendations on civic grants to local charities, service and recreational groups were delayed again today at a meeting of Victoria council finance committee. Ald. Arthur Dowell was absent from the city. He is chairman of the committee which includes Mayor Percy Scourrah and Ald. A. I. Curtis. The matter will come up again probably next week. The committee must recommend to council how to disburse $25,000 in grants to 25 organizations which have asked over $37,000. YMCA got largest gift last year, $3,500 and $3,000 went to Victoria Symphony Orchestra.

Three frigates of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron will carry out a "shoot" in Juan de Fuca Strait Monday, on their way home from a six-week training cruise with RCAF cadets embarked.

HMCS Ships Sussexvale, Ste. Therese and New Glasgow will fire at towed surface targets between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. They are scheduled to berth at HMC Dockyard at 4 p.m.

Objectives of the Humanist Fellowship will be the subject of an address by Harold Ratton, Andover, Mass., at a public meeting at 8 p.m., Friday, 721 Courtney.

Mr. Ratton is a former president of the Boston Humanist Fellowship.

Chairman of Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society, George E. Williams, resigned his office Wednesday night. His resignation followed disagreement within the group over financing of a proposed 23-unit housing project. Mr. Williams, who lives at 961 Tattersall, supports an early start with funds now available. Dissenting members feel the anticipated need of $75,000 should be obtained before a start is made. A September fund drive was discussed. A committee will ask Mr. Williams to reconsider his resignation.

A national "Civil Defence Day" will be marked for the first time in Canada Oct. 4. At a meeting of Greater Victoria Civil Defence officials Wednesday night chief instructor Robert Abbott was named head of a committee to arrange local displays and exhibitions at that time.

A communique from National headquarters has suggested, among other things, "parades through the city and a communications show with officers tapping out imaginary messages." CD co-ordinator Roger Peachey said today.

It's "Christmas in July" at the Empress Hotel. A large display room on the mezzanine floor has been converted into a glittering winter wonderland complete with shiny colored tinsel, Santa Claus masks, reindeer, green gnomes, imitation snow, Christmas trees and mistletoe. This, of course, is not intended for the general public but hotel guests, especially children, are lured to this commercial display by the Christmassy glow emanating in the corridor.

The display is put on by King Agencies of Vancouver for the benefit of Victoria stores already at work on their Christmas selling programs.

The average citizen, preoccupied with summer vacation plans, thinks of Christmas as a long way off. But storekeepers have to plan their campaigns months ahead.

This Christmas show has been "on the road" for several months, moving across Canada to Fort William and back. It includes many Christmas novelties made or finished on the West Coast.

So far about $100,000 worth of merchandise has been sold to retailers across the country.

AT HBC HISTORICAL EXHIBIT

Bustle Hustled, Front to Rear

By DINAH KERR

A small human error Wednesday pinpointed just how long 100 years of B.C. history is.

It happened shortly before the opening of the Hudson's Bay Company's historical exhibit of the province.

Store employees dressed a dummy in an early settler's dress of plum-colored velvet—with a bustle at the front.

The bustle was hustled into its conventional position before provincial and civic officials—along with more than 500 Victorians and tourists—arrived.

Applomb of the occasion suffered another relapse in mid-afternoon when a red-faced executive noted that a large picture of Sir Winston Churchill was labelled "present governor of the Hudson's Bay Company." He isn't—but W. J. Kewick of England is. The sign was removed.

Exhibits, depicting the part played by the HBC in the history of the province, ranged from

By Nona Damaske (From New York)

Clothes... clothes... clothes! They certainly make the world go around in this big city!

We've been visiting the Seventh Avenue garment district where the actual production goes on. It isn't the most glamorous side of the picture but it is one of the most interesting phases.

In Adele Simpson's showrooms we were shown her interesting collection that plucks fashion news out of the sky both in ideas and the names to go with them. Colors are most intriguing—meteor red, stardust, atmosphere green, vapor beige, moon white and Venus pink.

Fur trim on suits was again apparent and the favorite choice seemed to be the spotty furs. Personally, I don't care for them and I don't think they will be first choice in our city—but, one never knows!

A series of soft and airy sheer, cool dresses, frequently draped, were shown for underfur day dresses. Crepe, the big news fabric this season, was used for these dresses which this designer does to perfection. Formal gowns were sumptuous, yet elegantly simple. The highlight for me was a sheath of emerald green with a softly draped cowl back and the slight suggestion of a train.

Co-ordinated with each costume was jewelry designed by Adele Simpson, a new field for this designer, and the final brush stroke to complete a perfect picture!

The designer herself was abroad but she did not forget the visiting fashion editors. A cheery greeting by wire was read and her assistant presented each of us with a pair of her personally designed earrings.

Another inspired collection we viewed on Seventh Avenue was that of Harvey Berin. A favorite of the visiting editors, Mr. Berin was introduced as being "very formally attired." Everyone laughed but I failed to see the joke as he was wearing a good-looking grey business suit.

WHY GROW OLD?

Trouble Spots on Figure? These Exercises for You

Even the woman who is only a few pounds overweight often has trouble spots so far as her figure is concerned. I am just the trouble shooter to help you with those! One of these is prevalent in most women past 40—fat under the shoulder blades and across the shoulders. Exercise can be most effective. Try the following ones:

1. Stand erect. Bend the right elbow and place your right arm around the back of your head with your fingertips touching the left ear. Keep your right arm in this position as you bend to the left, trying to touch the fingers of your left hand to your left toe, or go as far down as you can. Raise the trunk and continue. After a while place your left arm around the back of your head with fingers touching the right ear. Bend to the right. Continue.

2. Stand with your feet separated. Raise your arms overhead. Bend your trunk and swing your arms between your legs trying to spank yourself. Raise trunk and arms. Continue.

3. Stand tall. Place both hands on the top of your head, feet separated. Lower trunk to right angles to body. Keep the trunk and hands in this position as you swing your trunk from side to side, moving as far in each direction as possible. Do this slowly, feeling the pull.

The pads of fat just below the waist on the back hips are also annoying to figure-conscious women. For this defect do the next two exercises:

1. Lie on the floor on your back with your arms extending out from your sides and resting on the floor, palms toward the floor. Bend both knees up close to the abdomen. Keep the knees in this position as you roll from side to side.

2. Stand erect with your feet separated and your arms side-ward, shoulder height. Raise your right arm up by your right ear. Keep in that position as you bend to the left, touching the left toe the Oregon Journal who was sitting next to me cued me up on the situation. It seems that when the editors viewed his spring and summer collection in January, he appeared in a battered sweater that Rex Harrison had given him and which had been through countless performances of "My Fair Lady."

WOOL DICKEY

A stunning sheath dress of grey wool opened the Berin showing. It had a white wool tuck-in dickey with a turtle neck. The model carried a matching umbrella with a grey wool case and a little dickey type top with a turtle neck. There are always a few really clever and different things done at each showing to keep the interest up.

Mr. Berin showed several dresses of wool lace that had been woven on Chantilly lace looms. Red, for every hour of the day is stressed in his collection and he also showed much more dark blue, which he called Marin, than anyone else.

Entertainment provided at the showings has been wonderful. It's fun to see faces that ordinarily one sees on television. Vic Damone was guest star at the Diamond Dinner and the comedian, Will Jordan, had us in stitches. (no pun intended)

Playtex of America entertained us at a midnight supper at Sardi's and Cone Mills started us on our way one morning with a fashion show breakfast at a smart Broadway restaurant, "Dunhaels."

No one has had any complaint about the New York weather. It is warm, of course, but certainly not unbearably so!

CANADIAN DEBUTANTES BOW TO QUEEN

LONDON (AP)—A sophisticated self-possessed group of 44 Canadian debutantes made a brief but nerve-wracking curtsy today before the Queen.

The girls—some at European finishing schools, others just graduated, still others fresh off the boat from home—were presented at Buckingham Palace, and afterwards joined several hundred other guests at a garden party in the palace grounds.

Governor-General Massey of Canada attended the garden party and was in the royal enclosure. Massey is here on a two-month visit.

The Foresee Club, St. Joseph's Hospital, garden party at the home of Mrs. G. B. McKenzies, 647 Grenville Ave., Saturday, from 2 to 5 p.m. Home cooking, superfluities and candy stalls, raffles and entertainment for the children. Tea will be served. Take No. 4 bus from the corner of Yates and Douglas.

Royal City Nurses Set Strike Date

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Nurses at Royal Columbian Hospital here have set July 30 as a strike date, the Registered Nurses Association of British Columbia announced today.

The nurses here voted 167 to 2 for a strike after the hospital board turned down a unanimous conciliation board report recommending salary increases.

The boards of two Lower Mainland hospitals, St. Mary's here, and St. Paul's in Vancouver, have also rejected conciliation awards which nurses have accepted. Strike votes have not been taken at these two.

It was announced Wednesday that a P-1 fighter unofficially exceeded the world air speed record of 1,132 miles an hour.

U.S. Visit Tops
With Nikita
—If Invited

WASHINGTON (UP)—

A Soviet diplomat says Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev would welcome an invitation to visit the United States.

Second Secretary Anatoli N. Gorskheev said Khrushchev would like to make trip in return for a visit to Russia by President Eisenhower.

The much-travelled Communist leader has hinted in the past he would like to visit the U.S.

The U.S. has never given any encouragement to the idea. However, the Soviet second secretary's statement in an interview to a capital radio station Wednesday came only a few hours after Eisenhower hinted that a visit from Soviet Defence Minister Georgi Zhukov might be welcome.

Administration officials said today the president is waging a determined and heartfelt campaign to break down the barrier of U.S.-Soviet mistrust and bring about a peaceful world.

Eisenhower said Wednesday at his conference "there is nothing I wouldn't try experimentally in order to bring about better relations."

He said in reply to a question an exchange of visits by Secretary of Defence Charles E. Wilson might be helpful.

The Soviet embassy, which usually declines to comment on anything, promptly called the idea a good one.

There was no immediate indication that the U.S. was about to propose the exchange of visits by the defence ministers. But in the past such casual beginnings have sometimes led to major actions.

PROBERS PUZZLED

Cancer, Cigaret
Experts Differ

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sharply differing opinions on the relationship between cigaret smoking and lung cancer were voiced today before congressional investigators.

Dr. Clarence Cook Little, chairman of the scientific advisory board to the tobacco industry research committee, testified research findings "disprove a simple striking cause and effect relationship between cigaret smoking and lung cancer."

Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, spokesman for the American Cancer Society, testified that in his opinion, "the evidence is overwhelming" that cigaret smoking is one cause of lung cancer.

The testimony opened a hearing by a subcommittee which is interested primarily in advertising claims as to the protective value of filters on cigars.

Dr. Little until 1945 was managing director of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, now the American Cancer Society and in 1954 was, appointed head of the tobacco industry's research advisory board.

He said the company got no air force instructions or recommendations following the crashes of Mark V CF-100s at Kinross, Mich., last year and on London's Crumlin airport this year.

A report from Ottawa earlier today quoted authoritative sources as saying that following a fatal crash of the Mark V CF-100 last year, an air force board of inquiry recommended structural tests of the wing and that these tests had not yet been carried out.

The Avro spokesman said the findings of RCAF inquiry boards are delivered to "the administrative heads of the RCAF" who then decide whether further action is to be taken.

Laying of Charges
Will Be Discussed

A special meeting of Esquimalt police commission will be held next week to consider laying charges in the broken-bottle assault of a high school teacher.

Police Commissioner Elvan Walters said today he will recommend police take action against an 18-year-old former Esquimalt High School student.

The meeting was announced by Reeve A. C. Wurtele, chairman of the three-man commission.

Mr. Walters said earlier he would call for the meeting. Date depends on availability of all commission members. Third member is D. L. Douglas.

Reeve Wurtele and Commissioner Walters disagree on who should prefer charges.

The commissioner says it should not be up to school teacher Patrick Thomas to lay charges. This would make the issue a personal matter, he thought.

The reeve says the teacher should have laid the charge when the incident occurred, May 31. He would not indicate whether he would support Commissioner Walters in the laying of a charge or charges by the police force.

'Is He Man or Mouse?'—Wurtele

"He, (Mr. Thomas) ought to have been man enough to come down and lay a charge," said the reeve. "Is he man or mouse?"

"The police could lay a charge and if there were no witnesses, it could fall through."

"It's wrong this should have been allowed to go on so long and wrong I should learn now of the lack of discipline at the school."

"If they haven't strong enough characters, there are 101 ways of enforcing discipline."

The incident which occurred May 31 at an Esquimalt High School graduation party, was first brought to light Monday at a meeting of Greater Victoria School Board.

Principal A. C. Kelly said a student who had been dismissed a year earlier had come to the dance after he had been drinking.

The boy had been observed pressing a broken bottle against the stomach of Mr. Thomas and threatening: "I'll kill you."

It was in Mr. Thomas' class the insolence, which caused the boy's dismissal, took place.

Mr. Thomas, now in Vancouver taking university summer instruction, had left an information with Esquimalt police. The police, on the night of the incident, had taken the boy from the school to his home after other teachers had interrupted the violence.

Chief Gilbert Stancombe said Tuesday it was up to Mr. Thomas to sign a complaint—a view held also by school board lawyer W. H. M. Haldane, QC.

'Social Evil' Should Be Corrected

Mr. Thomas, said from Vancouver, he would seek advice and consider the matter. While reluctant to press charges personally, he felt the situation represented a social evil which could not go uncorrected.

Commissioner Walters agrees. "If this is a mental case or a case of drinking, it is still an illness which should be treated."

Unless there is some action by the police, the boy is the

Mr. Walters indicated more police supervision of youth activities was warranted in Esquimalt.

He said there are only three officers on duty at night in the

PROPELLER BEHEADS FARM GIRL

MILES CITY, Mont. (AP)—An airplane propeller decapitated a 13-year-old farm girl while she helped her father cut hay Wednesday.

Sharon Sammons had been pulling a hay rake near a tractor driven by her father, Ernest Sammons, on the Miles City airport grounds. A light plane was practising take-offs nearby.

The plane veered off the runway, howled over a marker light and then struck the girl, investigators said.

The accident was witnessed by the father and airport officials.

He said Saturday night 'teen-age dances had been held in Esquimalt.

"Coun. (J. E.) Carey and I were keen on them. They went fine. There was a rule if the youngsters went out after they came to the dance, they had to stay out.

"A policeman would come around. It was definitely their job in my opinion."

He felt police on duty should check in at the high school dances as well.

The school board Monday recommended that off-duty police be hired to supervise night activities at the school.

Reeve Wurtel protested the system. It is used in some Victoria high schools.

He said the Esquimalt police contract disallows officers to do other jobs when off duty. Such maintenance of discipline should be up to the teachers, he said.

"If anyone was to come at me with a broken bottle, I would immediately lay a charge with the police," he said.

26 Days Atop Pole Claimed As Record

MONTREAL (CP)—Russell Poissant, 44, heaved a sigh of relief, clambered back down to earth and claimed a North American flagpole-sitting record Wednesday night.

He spent 26 days atop his pole near the south shore community of Laprairie.

Eight firemen and police constables lowered Poissant from the pole at exactly 8:30 p.m. He had set up shop on a small platform perch at that time 26 days ago.

The changed United States attitude, which no longer takes Canadian acceptance of Washington diplomatic leadership for granted and no longer ignores completely Canadian protests against such adverse economic policies as wheat giveaways and sales gimmicks, is being claimed in cabinet circles here as a direct pay-off from the new Diefenbaker policy of closer Commonwealth relations.

Since the prime minister first revealed in London his master-plan for shifting the emphasis in Canadian trade policy from Washington to the Commonwealth—a course which inevitably would involve an equal shift in political and diplomatic emphasis—the following major developments have occurred south of the border:

—United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has taken the initiative in bringing about Canadian-United States talks in the course of a visit which he proposes to make to Ottawa, presumably inspired by a Diefenbaker bias towards basically Commonwealth relationships which has made Washington authorities mildly uneasy.

—Walter Berger, administrator of the United States Commodity Credit Corporation, has testified before a United States Senate Agricultural subcommittee that the U.S. barter sale program of farm products, against which Canada has protested repeatedly but vainly in the past, is to be controlled in future so that it will not interfere with normal international markets.

—The National Planning Association, an influential private organization which operates close to the Washington government, has launched a movement under Douglas Stuart, one of the most important figures in the Republican party and a former United States ambassador to Canada, to study and remove the source of economic grievance between Canada and the U.S.

These three major developments are recognized in government circles here as a welcome and spectacular contrast to the indifferent policy Washington had towards Canada over the previous years of the Eisenhower administration.

Feeling of Enmity In Cairo, London Gone, Says Menon

CAIRO (AP)—Defence Minister V. K. Krishnan Menon of India said Wednesday after a four-hour meeting with President Nasser of Egypt that the problem of resumption of Anglo-Egyptian relations "now is limited to certain specific points."

"I have not found a feeling of enmity either in Cairo or London, but such matters as these need time before returning to normal," he said. "Among points of difference still remaining is the problem of British firms under sequestration."

Menon praised Nasser's Suez Canal plan under which Egypt operates the waterway. He said it was a brilliant manoeuvre.

Menon made the comments before taking off for Lebanon on his way back to India.

Business, Labor Ignore Ike's Inflation Pleas

WASHINGTON (AP)—Statistics indicated today that American business and labor are substantially ignoring President Eisenhower's heated pleas that they exercise self-restraint on wages and prices to curb inflation.

Wages keep on going up and so do prices—and the data indicate they have been going up more since January than before. It was in January that Eisenhower told the United States in his annual economic report it was time for some labor-management self-denial.

Data available from the government and reliable private sources show that wage rate settlements, although they have been few, have been somewhat higher so far in 1957 than in the comparable period in 1956.

Prices as reflected by the government's consumer price index—the most widely used measurement of the U.S. living costs—have never stopped going up in 1957.

The living cost index has risen to records for nine straight months in a climb that started 15 months ago. Government economists have forecast another living cost record will be announced in a few days.

Eisenhower has repeated several times since January his warning against speeding up inflation with wage and price boosts.

June 26 and again July 3 the president said business and labor will have to help hold the line against inflation because the government cannot do it alone.

Controls Threat Unless there is some statesmanlike action by business and labor in avoiding uncalled-for price and wage boosts, Eisenhower said, the alternative may be government controls. He has made clear he doesn't want such controls in peacetime.

Government figures also reveal rising profits, indicating that 1957 promises to be the highest profits year in history.

Figures supplied by Eisenhower's council of economic advisers estimated corporation profits before taxes for the first quarter of 1957 at $46,500,000,000 annual rate compared with $43,700,000,000 for the same 1956 quarter.

Sheppard Murder Suspect 'Poor Find'

BERKELEY, Calif. (UP)—Dr. Paul Kirk, key defence consultant in the Dr. Samuel Sheppard murder case, today dismissed a newly confessed "suspect" in the murder of Marilyn Sheppard as a "poor possibility."

Kirk said however, that the fact that the "confessor," Florida convict Donald Wedler, 23, is a left-handed man "is interesting because I have known all along that the murderer was left-handed."

Wedler has never actually mentioned the name of Sheppard, but has confessed only to bludgeoning a housewife to death about the same time Marilyn Sheppard was murdered in her Cleveland, Ohio bedroom July 4, 1954.

Kirk, a criminologist at the University of California, flatly believes Dr. Sheppard, who is now serving a life sentence for the crime, is innocent.

"I have no doubt that Sheppard is innocent," he said.

Kirk based his theory that the murderer was left-handed on the position of blood stains on the wall. "The blows would have had to be struck by a left-handed man," he said.

Sheppard was right-handed, he added.

But he believes that Wedler is hardly worth considering as a suspect. However, Sheppard's brother, Dr. Stephen Sheppard, will fly to Florida to question Wedler.
